Hundreds Gather For Dairy Princess Celebration Tonight

LOU ANN GOOD

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Tonight is the 40th anniversary celebration of the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess and Promotion Services, Inc. (PDPPS). Hundreds of people will gather at the Sheraton Inn-East in Harrisburg to recap the program's accomplishments and to crown a new state dairy princess from the 31 contestants.

Among the crowd will be past dairy princesses, PDPPS board members, and dedicated committee members who serve on county dairy promotion boards. These are the people who have brought success to the grassroots dairy promotion efforts.

It's the only dairy promotion organization in the state that concentrates on the personal touch by using county dairy princesses, alternates, ambassadors, and dairy darlings to hand out samples, recipes, and information to individuals at fairs and special events.

According to Jan Harding, director of PDPPS, these dairy spokespeople contacted 953,418 people last year.

But it's difficult to measure the success of PDPPS's promotional efforts in numbers.

These people play a vital role in dairy promotion and will help celebrate the 40th anniversary of the PDPPS held tonight at the Sheraton Inn-East in Harrisburg. In the front row from left are Kelly Rohrbach, Berks County Dairy Princess; Heather Brubaker, Lancaster County dairy ambassador; and Kelly Rohrbach, Berks County Li'l Miss. Back from left, are Charlene Ranck, a former state dairy princess and now a board member for PDPPS; Pat Miller, former PDPPS coordinator; Deb Brubaker, former state dairy princess, the daughter of Pat Miller and mother of Heather; and Becky Sonnen Bube, former state dairy princess and program director for MAMMA. Photo by Lou Ann Good.

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The 33rd Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show (PAADS) unofficially starts today in the state Farm Show Complex, and is officially open to the general public Monday, Sept. 23 through Thursday, Sept. 26.

Over the years, PAADS has grown in scope and size and competition for those dairy cattle breeders wishing to improve the visibility of their cattle and breeding programs.

To an extent, the PAADS has been considered the dairy cattle breeder's farm show.

The oldest and largest dairy show in the East, it is the region's premier dairy cattle showcase, attracting cattle breeders from many states and Canada.

Show organizers have increasingly worked to widen the spectrum of audience for whom the event has value — especially commercial dairy farmers and

HERSEHY (Dauphin Co.) — Members of the Penn Ag Industries Association, a trade group of agribusinesses conducting business in Pennsylvania, on Tuesday approved amendments to its bylaws that permits the establishment of industry-specific councils within the organization.

During the group's 118th annual convention business meeting, held Tuesday at the Hotel Hershey, members approved amendments that would allow councils to be formed within its ranks to focus on specific aspects of agribusiness in order to help the organization be more knowlegdeable and supportive of all specific aspects of agribusiness now represented broadly

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Producers of Tuesday night's NBC TV "Dateline" Show on Salmonella enteritidis (SE) in eggs were given a chance to review the facts about SE and to contact the Northeast Egg Promotion Coalition.

And they didn't even bother to get in touch with the coalition, according to Christine Bushway, coalition director.

Bushway, of CMB Victory Company in North Hampton, N.H., spoke to about 60 producers Wednesday morning during the egg producers' segment of the two-day Northeast Poultry Show at the Holiday Inn Lancaster Host.

Bushway said that the coalition faxed all the information available about the successful Pennsylvania Egg Quality Assurance Program (PEQAP), what some call the "Cadillac" of egg quality assurance

National Grain Market

St. Joseph, MO
Wed September 18, 1996
USDA-MO Dept Ag Market News

DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY

Wheat bids were slightly higher due to anticipated export sales for hard red winter wheat. Corn bids were mixed, lower on profit taking and harvest pressure but overnight export demand added some support. Soybean bids moved higher due to strong wheat bids. Wheat 3 to 6 cents higher. Corn mixed, 5 cents higher to 4 cents lower. Sorghum 1 to 2 cents higher. Soybeans 1 to 8 cents higher. Indications that there are a few countries seeking Hard Red Winter for September through November shipment. This, added strength to some wheat bids. The lack of actual sales the past few days continued to pressure other wheat bids along with profit taking on the board. Corn bids fell lower again today as some liquidation on the board offered weakness. Corn harvest is nearly underway if weather permits. Light export demand overnight, limited losses.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

SEPTEMBER 23-29, 1996

YOM KIPPUR, SEPT. 23.

FULL HARVEST MOON

September 26 marks this year's Full Harvest Moon, always the Full Moon closest to the Autumnal Equinox, consequently falling in October in some years. For 1996, the Harvest Moon comes right on the heels of the Autumnal Equinox on the 22nd. The 26th also shows a total eclipse of the Harvest Moon, visible in the eastern and central United States and Canada in its beginning stages. The final stages of the eclipse can be viewed from most of North America, except for extreme western Alaska and Hawaii.

The shadow of our traveling earth/Hung on the silver moon.

– Charles Tennyson-Turner

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ Harvested tomato seeds are viable for up to 4 years. Save seeds from open-pollinated, non-hybrid plants.

BROILED SWORDFISH KEBABS

1/2 cup olive oil
1/2 cup white wine vinegar
2 cloves garlic, crushed
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1/2 teaspoon red pepper sauce
1/8 teaspoon black pepper
2 pounds fresh swordfish
2 red peppers, seeded
24 cherry tomatoes
juice of 1 lemon

Mix together first 6 ingredients. Cut the swordfish and peppers into 1-inch chunks. Marinate fish in the sauce for 1 hour. Remove fish and reserve marinade. Boil marinade for 3 to 5 minutes. Skewer fish, peppers, and whole tomatoes in an alternating pattern on 12 skewers. Place on cookie sheet and broil for 10 minutes, basting with reserved marinade and turning several times. Before serving, squeeze lemon juice over all. Serve on a bed of rice.

Makes 6 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

Moonlit nights have the heaviest frosts.

As many floods will follow as the Moon is old on St. Michael's Day (Sept. 29).

Holly berries shining red, mean a long winter, 'tis said.

– English proverb

The first and last frosts are always the worst.

OPINION

Farmers Feed The World

One of the most enduring myths of the modern world is that we're running out of food production potential. According to the summer issue of Global Food Quarterly produced by the Hudson Institute, countless people are absolutely certain that famine is just around the corner, and we must do something drastic to suppress population growth. These people have no idea how the world's farmers have tripled their yields over the last 35 years. But they are sure the yields can't be tripled again.

Over the last 22 years, the world's grain production has increased 46 percent, and grain yields have risen 55 percent, outstripping population growth of 42 percent. For the next decade, Asian and Latin American populations are expected to grow at about 1.5 percent per year, while their crop yields are rising at 2.4 percent. Where is the emergency? Only in Africa where they're not using high-yield farming.

In the U.S., farm production has been responsible for feeding not only ourselves but also has been one of the only bright spots in the yearly trade deficit figures. Agricultural products from America have helped feed the world. Our farmers have considered exporting food a good business opportunity, and they have also considered it their moral responsibility to feed the world.

And the future looks bright. For example, new plant varieties have been developed through biotechnology that continue to increase yields and at the same time have within the plant the ability to resist disease, insects, and drought. We believe farmers will continue to be able to feed the world wherever the political and social climate does not prohibit farming and the distribution food to reach the people.

If the world goes hungry, it will be because war or the opponents of agriculture will it to do so.

Now Is The Time

To Check Fire Insurance

If a fire occurred in your home, how much of the losses to personal property would be covered by your homeowner's or renter's insurance?

According to Dr. Robert Thee, extension family resource management agent, the standard policy will only cover the depreciated value of clothing, appliances, furniture and other personal items lost in a fire. Depending on the age and type of item, that could be as little as a few cents on the dollar of what you paid when you bought the item.

But for only a few dollars more on your insurance premium, you can have the replacement cost for personal property instead of the depreciated value. This may be especially important for items which quickly lose their value.

To Check for Perils Covered by Insurance

Dr. Robert Thee, extension family resource management agent, reminds us it is important to know what your insurance covers.

One important area is the type of perils covered under your current homeowner's or renter's policy. For most policies, personal property is covered for the 18 items listed under broad form coverage. These include fire or lightening, windstorm or hail, explosion, smoke, vandalism, theft and weight of ice, snow or sleet.

By adding a rider, this coverage may be extended to all perils except flood, earthquake, war, nuclear accident and others specified in your policy.

If you are renting and do not have renter's insurance, you should consider this type of coverage. It is important to review your policy with your insurance agent to be sure you have the type of coverage you need.

To Consider Cover Crops

According to Leon Ressler, extension agricultural agent, proper on-farm nutrient management requires the use of several tools.

These include soil testing, manure testing and manure spreader calibration. Another tool which is often overlooked but can provide numerous benefits is the use of winter cover crops.

Many farmers need to empty their manure storage units during the fall season. Winter cover crops are a valuable tool to prevent the loss of valuable nutrients and prevent environmental pollution when this is done.

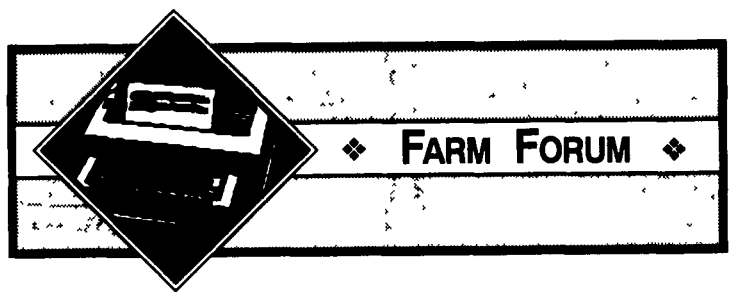
If you are applying manure to cropland this fall, plan on planting a small grain cover crop such as rye. The rye will take up the available nitrogen and hold it in the plant preventing its loss to the water supply.

If the rye is harvested, the nutrients will be utilized as high quality feed. If the rye is killed or plowed in the spring, the nutrients will become available to the following crop.

The rye will also prevent nutrient loss by slowing soil erosion.

Rye may be planted as late as November. However, the earlier the rye is planted the more nutrients it will take up and the more yield it will produce in the spring.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "What happens to a man is less significant than what happens within him."



Editor,

As the prime sponsor of HB 2686 I feel compelled to respond to your "Milking the Children" and "Chopped Liver" editorial of August 31, 1996.

Your editorial suggestion that my bill somehow targets farmers and agriculture in general simply could not be farther from the truth. In fact, my desire to NOT in any way hurt the price received by the farmers was a genuine concern of mine before introducing the bill, and a major reason why my bill is directed at a vary narrow and specific piece of the overall PMMB authority. It repeals only the Board's authority to set minimum retail prices and the wholesale price paid by schools and certain public institutions. All other aspects of the milk marketing law, including the Board's power to set minimum producer prices, would remain intact. Thus, if the Board truly exercises its authority as an independent agency — one whose mission is to ensure a fair price for farmers as the basis for all levels of minimum pricing — there is absolutely no basis for the conclusion that this bill would in any way adversely affect the price received by the farmers.

If the impact on farmers would be as your editorial suggests, why is its objective, repeal of minimum prices, supported in the 1996 Policy Book of the PA Farm Bureau, the largest state farm organization and the key one I checked before introducing the bill? And why did their dairy specialist offer excellent testimony in favor of the bill at the hearing stating, "The policy makers of our organization believe that by lowering the retail milk price, sales of milk will increase, and farm profits will improve"? Furthermore, at the hearing Dr. Robert Yonkers, Associate Professor of Agriculture Economics at Penn State University, testified that there was no valid evidence to support the conclusion that repeal of the minimum retail pricing in other states had resulted

BACKWARD OR FORWARD?

BACKWARD OR FORWARD?
September 22, 1996

Background Scripture:
Jeremiah 7
Devotional Reading:
Micah 6:1-8

It is hard for us to comprehend why the prophet Jeremiah was so rejected in his own day. One reason is that we find ourselves in pretty much the same situation as the one that faced the people to whom he prophesied. They knew how to be good Jews and they did it. They made the right sacrifices in the temple, they observed the right holy days, and they lived up to all those criteria by which people were judged as true servants of God.

So, when Jeremiah comes proclaiming, "Amend your ways and your doings," the people are understandably annoyed and even outraged. What is there for them to "amend"? Why fix something that's not broken? They are the religious orthodox, the mainstream Hebrews, and the faithful of the Jerusalem temple. They are proud to protest, "This is the temple of the Lord."

Like those who first heard what has come to be known as Jeremiah's temple sermon, we too find our security in being able to say, "This is a Bible-believing congregation!" "This is mainstream, orthodox Christianity!" Our creeds, our doctrines, our rituals, or being "conservative" or "liberal" — all are looked to for protection and security.

WRONG PLACES

But Jeremiah proclaims that they are finding assurance in the wrong places. "Do not trust in these deceptive words: 'This is the temple of the Lord, the temple of the Lord, the temple of the Lord'" (Jeremiah 7:4). Jeremiah then utters a phrase to which Jesus will one day allude: "Has this house, which is called by my name, become a den of robbers in your eyes?" (7:11). A den was a place where people could find security and protection.

So what is the source of true security? Jeremiah says it has nothing to do with empty religious observances. "For if you truly amend your ways and your doings, if you truly execute justice one with another, if you do not oppress the alien, the fatherless or the widow, or shed innocent blood in this place, and if you do not go after other gods to your own hurt, then I will let you dwell in this place, in the land that I gave of old to your fathers forever" (7:5-7).

If you want true security, Jeremiah is saying, you will find it only in living a life that is founded, not upon material things — the Baals of today — but is responsive to the needs of others who cannot help themselves. "Will you steal, murder, commit adultery, swear falsely, burn incense to Baal, and go after other gods that you have not known, and then come and stand before me in this house, which is called by my name, and say, 'We are delivered!' — only to go on doing these abominations" (7:9-10)?

STUBBORN HEARTS

Actually, Jeremiah wants to fix Israelite religion because it is broken — even though the people do not realize it. God is angry with his people and they haven't the slightest idea that he is. To their forefathers he had said, "Obey my voice, and I will be your God, and you shall be my people . . . But they did not obey or incline their ear, but walked in their own counsels and the stubbornness of their evil hearts, and went backward and not forward" (7:23,24).

That couldn't possibly be us, could it — we who are so advanced in our spiritual growth that we don't have to search for it. Is it possible that people so enlightened as we could be going backward instead of forward? Nothing is more likely to disguise our going backward than the illusion that we are really out in front.

So, is it possible that some might say of us as Jeremiah said of his generation, "They did worse than their fathers?" (7:26b).

Ridge Administration Announces 1997 Farm Show International Day

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — On behalf of Gov. Tom Ridge, Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius announced that the Ridge Administration plans to hold a second International Day in conjunction with the 1997 Pennsylvania Farm Show.

Scheduled for Jan. 10-11, international visitors will be invited to the Farm Show Complex to meet Pennsylvania's producers, processors and businessmen, and learn about Pennsylvania agriculture.

"Gov. Tom Ridge is committed to helping Pennsylvania agriculture gain a larger share of the international market by strengthening our current export contacts and making contacts in new markets," Brosius said. "Building on last year's successful event, this year's trade event will allow our international visitors to get to know the quality and diversity of our products." He noted that the state hosted 102 foreign guests from 33 countries at last year's Farm Show.

Brosius also noted that in 1995 — the first year of the Ridge Administration — exports of all Pennsylvania products increased by 11.7 percent over the 1994 level to exceed the $15 billion mark. Pennsylvania agriculture exports reached a record $923 million in 1995, an increase of 2.6 percent from 1994.

Additionally, the Department of Agriculture participated in 10 trade events with 112 Pennsylvania companies participating during 1995.

The 1997 International Day will be co-chaired by Russell Redding, Deputy Secretary for Marketing, Promotion and Program Services, and David McCorkle, president of the Pennsylvania Food Merchants Association, will co-chair the event. The coordinating committees will consist of agriculture and food industry leaders in a public/private partnership.

In addition to tours of the Farm Show, international guests will be hosted at a trade show which will highlight value added foods, processing equipment, wood products and environmental technology. They will also be guests of the Secretary at the traditional Farm Show dinner on Friday, Jan. 10. Both the trade show and the dinner will be held at the Hershey Lodge and Convention Center.

For more information about International Day participation, contact Leo Dunn, Bureau of Market Development, (717) 783-8462.

in lower producer prices.

Finally, I fail to understand why an effort to correct one small function of the Board for the benefit of consumers and farmers alike has been viewed as an all-out attack on the Board and all its functions. This view is shared not only by you, but more significantly, by the Board, its staff and its legions of ardent supporters as led by the dealers. Possibly there is a message here we shouldn't overlook. Whose interest is the Board really protecting? Is it farmers, when the Board's authority to set minimum farm prices, including over-order premiums, would not be changed by this bill or is it the profits of others along the marketing chain who handle the milk between the time it leaves the farm and when it reaches the consumer?

I understand that you have an obligation editorially to defend your readership and their interests — your constituency if you will. Nonetheless, I also believe you have an equally important obligation to present information accurately to them. To portray HB 2686 as simply an attack on the farmers without a true understanding of its intent, its specific provisions, and its real impact falls short of any standard for accurate reporting or logical editorial stance.

Thank you in advance for printing my repsonse to the inaccurate and misleading statements presented in your editorial. If you or any of your readers would like to discuss this entire matter in more detail, please feel free to contact me.

—Jeff Moore
Centreville, MD

ADC Is the Place To Be

Financial stability and the greatest return from the marketplace – the outstanding benefits that Jeff Moore refers to – are among the strengths of the premier dairy cooperative in the region.

Atlantic Dairy Cooperative has a 78-year history of excellent service to its members. Financially strong, ADC guarantees a market for all member milk and excels in maximizing returns. ADC is a leader in providing equity payments, quality bonuses and over-order premiums to members.

Nearly 4,000 dairy farmers agree that "ADC is the Place to Be."

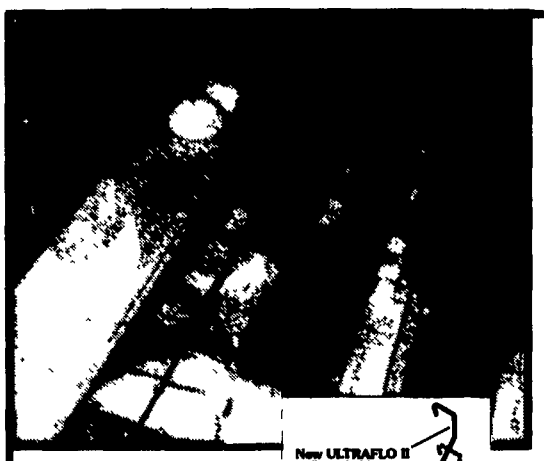
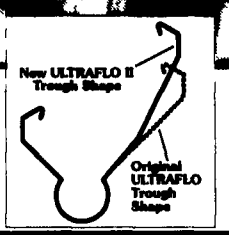
CHORE-TIME ...nobody knows more about feeding

Chore-Time Model ATF Feeder with polypropylene pan shown. Also available with galvanized steel pan.
The Right Choice in turkey feeders
RUGGED POLYPROPYLENE construction of Model ATF pan is available for permanent corrosion-proofing. Material has an ultra-smooth surface so feed and dirt won't stick, so it stays clean. Our polypropylene also has a special ultraviolet inhibitor. Liberal 5-year pan warranty! Ask for details.
FEED SAVER FEATURES: unique "V" pan shape lets you maintain a low feed level; feed-saver ring: 2 1/2" pan lip to catch feed.
FEED PAN DEPTH on Stage 3 Feeder is 5-1/2 inches; 8-week old birds or the largest toms can reach feed.


New Shape
The difference is the shape of the feeder's trough (at right). ULTRAFLO II's higher trough lip reduces feed waste by keeping it in the trough and not on the floor or in the pit.



The Right Choice in cage feeders
Chore-Time's popular ULTRAFLO® Cage Feeding System is now even more outstanding! We've developed and tested the second generation of ULTRAFLO feeders and named it the ULTRAFLO® II.
ULTRAFLO II offers you even greater reliability, durability, and outstanding feed-saving performance—up to 1 gram of feed per bird per day—over the original ULTRAFLO. And even the original ULTRAFLO was beating our competitors in feed savings!
So, join the cage feeding leader. Contact us today. Find out how Chore-Time and ULTRAFLO II can help you be a leader, too!

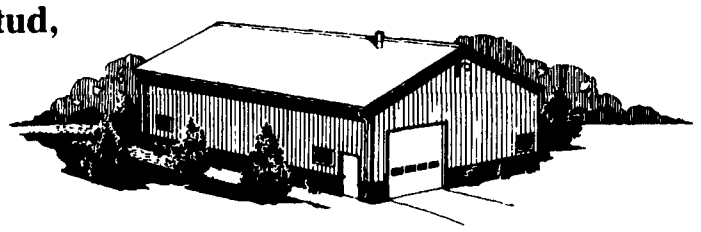
The Building you want. The Lease you need.

Whether your new farm or commercial building is of pole, timber column, stud, steel or block construction; choose Telmark lease financing.



Telmark has been leasing equipment for over 30 years. Did you know that we've been leasing new buildings for that long too? Consider the features:

- Tax deductibility and accelerated write-offs: Lease payments are income tax deductible over the term of the lease compared to 20-year depreciation of farm buildings and 39-year depreciation of commercial buildings Could reduce tax liability this year.
- Low upfront costs: Beginning costs may be as little as one monthly lease payment.
- Flexible lease term: Building lease terms start aggressively at five years but may be as long as ten, twelve, or fifteen years.
- Customized payment schedules: Lease payment schedules match your cash flow. Payment options include monthly, quarterly, annually, as well as, skip or specially designed seasonal payments.

How do you start leasing a building from Telmark? Talk with a qualified builder to determine your needs and building cost. And call your Telmark representative.

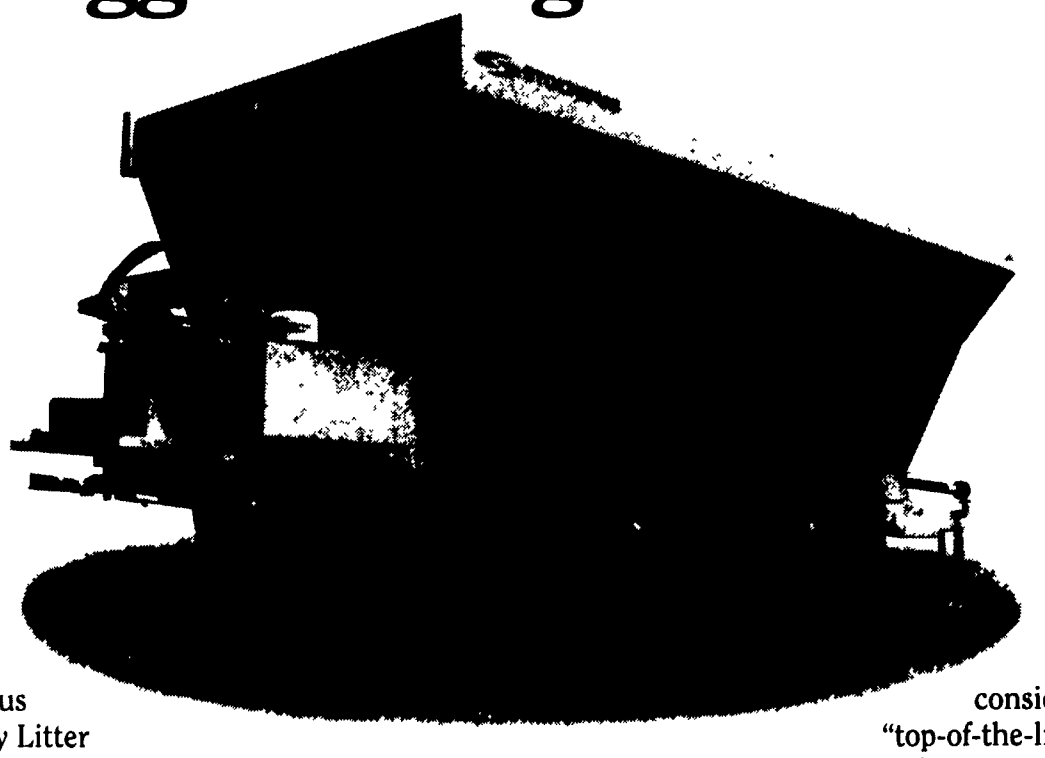
The One Spreader Big Enough For Poultry Litter, Rugged Enough For Lime.



The Stoltzfus Poultry Litter Spreader is specifically designed for the demands of this challenging job. The 20 foot hopper holds a whopping 400 cubic foot load, meaning fewer trips for you. The big 30-inch drag chain moves large volumes of litter fast. And the dual hydraulic spinners spread a wide, uniform pattern up to 40 feet wide.

But its real beauty may be its versatility. Now you can spread fertilizer, stockpiled lime, compost,poultry litter and more, all with one machine.

Long considered "top-of-the-line" ag spreaders, many Stoltzfus Spreaders are still in use after 20 years. That makes a Stoltzfus Spreader preferred not only for quality and performance, but also for terrific economy in the long run.

Sure you can settle for buying on initial price alone. But with a Stoltzfus Spreader you won't be shopping for another spreader just a couple years down the line.

Hundreds Gather For Dairy Princess Celebration Tonight

Long after many of the dairy princesses relinguish their crowns they continue to promote milk among family, friends, and coworkers.

Deb Miller Brubaker is a prime example of how her involvement in dairy promotion continues to spread to others. Brubaker was a Dauphin County dairy princess who went on to capture the state crown in 1974.

Her mother, Pat Miller, who chaperoned her daughter to functions around the state, became excited about dairy promotion. After her daughter's reign ended, Miller continued as district dairy princess coordinator and served on the PDPPS board for 15 years.

During these years, Deb married a dairy farmer and moved to Lancaster County where they farm 250 acres and milk 130 cows. She and her husband Lowell have three daughters, who have become active in dairy promotion. Daughter Heather, 15, is a dairy ambassador for Lancaster County, and several of her daughters served as dairy darlings for the county.

In fact, Miller said that she now has six granddaughters involved somehow in dairy promotion in Lancaster and Dauphin counties.

Becky Sonnen Bube is another example of how the dairy princess program influenced her life. From Lebanon County, she became the state dairy princess in 1987. Now she is program director for Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Association.

Sonnen said, "Being a dairy princess opened my eyes to different aspects of the dairy industry. Before I knew the hands on work, but I became acquainted with the behind the scenes work of promoting. Next to being married, becoming dairy princess was the best thing that ever happened to me. It helped be get my job and prepared me for working."

In 1981, Charlene Rohrer was crowned dairy princess. Now she is married to Merle Ranck and has three sons, but her involvement with the dairy industry has not slowed down.

After serving on the dairy promotion committee in Chester County for 10 years, Ranck was named PDPPS secretary and coordinator for the Southeast district.

"The skills learned as dairy princess helped me to relate to people in a more professional way," she said.

Ranck helps to train and prepare county princesses in dairy promotion and for the pageant.

At tonight's pageant, Angela Werley, Berks County dairy princess, will compete for the state crown. The Werley family became involved in the dairy princess program when Angela's younger sister was crowned the Berks County Little Miss in 1989.

In addition to working on her family's Hamburg dairy farm, Angela was a county milk ambassador until she was crowned dairy princess. Her mother Donna (father is Philip) is chairperson for the county promotion committee. The Werleys were named Berks County Farm Family of the Year recently.

Watching from the sidelines will be Kelly Rohrbach, daughter of Alan and Beth Rohrbach of Showmakersville and the Berks County Li'l Miss. It's the pageant where dreams are birthed. Kelly and other young girls her age idolize the grown-up princesses, and they can hardly wait until they are big enough to wear a "real crown."

From its small beginnings in 1956 when the Miss Milk Maid contest was initiated by the Pennsylvania Association of Milk Dealers until the present with 31 county dairy princesses, the purpose of the program is to sell more milk products.

The dairy princess program is supported and funded by Pennsylvania dairy farmers through the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc., Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Association, American Dairy Association & Dairy Council, Mid East/ Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program, Allied Milk Producers, and independent contributors.

Growers Examine Bt Corn At Field Day

LANDISVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — When corn borer strikes, the results can be deadly: the stalk cut through with black holes. Significant loss in grain yields and ear size. And the problem can recur again the following year.

What can growers do about it?

About 70 producers and agri-industry representatives attended one of several area Bt Field Days, this one held at the Dennis Bender Farm on Tuesday evening in Landisville. There, Northrup King (NK) representatives were on hand to discuss the promise that Bt corn hybrids bring.

(Bt corn, which stands for Bacillus thuringiensis, is a naturally occurring soil bacteria that produces an insecticidal crystal protein lethal to certain insects, particularly the corn borer.)

Mark Mattingly, NK product development agronomist, spoke about one new variety of corn on a plot of ground at the 123-acre dairy farm operated by Dennis and Robin Bender. He showed producers the effects of non-Bt corn — evidence of stalk damage in several spots. Then he showed producers the variety of NK Bt corn available — N7639 Bt — a new corn release grown on the Bender farm. There was no evidence of stalk damage with the Bt corn.

There are about 55 acres of NK corn at the farm. The N7639 variety was grown on one six-row strip on ground in continuous corn.

"(Growers) don't normally treat for corn borer in the East," said Mattingly. Problem is, the corn borer can overwinter in corn debris on the fields and feed on the subsequent year's crop.

What happens, according to Mattingly, is that the eggs are laid on the underside of leaves. When hatched, the corn borer moves into the stalk and begins feeding deep into the top.

A sign of corn borer infestation is the reddening of the top of the stalk. Subsequent generations of the borer then feed down to the ear.

With Bt corn, the protein that the borer ingests basically "burns a hole in the gut of the borer, killing it," said Mattingly. "So there is an absolute value in using Bt corn to control corn borer in hybrid corn fields."

He said this is a new tool that growers can use, economically, to control the pest in their fields.

About 70 producers and agri-industry representatives attended one of several area Bt Field Days, this one held at the Dennis Bender Farm on Tuesday evening in Landisville. At right is Mark Mattingly, NK product development agronomist.

PennAg Industries Approves Bylaws Changes

by the organization.

The bylaws of the group continues to provide for a past president's council — a consultative group of past presidents.

Now added to the bylaws is the authorization for the formation of additional councils representing specific segments of the agribusiness industry with representation on the association's board of directors.

The move paves the way for more direct inclusion in the association of other industry associations, and possible mergers.

In fact, the group approved a merger proposal between the Pennsylvania Agronomic Products Association (PAPA) and itself.

A letter of intent has been signed by each group indicating that each will work to conclude an agreement acceptable to the respective memberships for a merger to occur on Jan. 1, 1997.

Two positions on the PennAg board of directors have been left vacant to be filled by nominations from a PAPA council.

PAPA members are to consider the proposal at its scheduled October annual meeting.

What would have to occur in order for PAPA to merge is the formation of an agronomic products council within PennAg, which is made possible with the amendments to the PennAg bylaws.

The reason for merging and creating specific-agribusiness councils are several-fold, but basically come down to the fact that the entire industry has been and is expected to continue to consolidate.

In order to prevent a diffusing of strength in representation on public issues, and to achieve more cost-efficient representation, such a consolidation of political force is seen as a logical step.

For those familiar with the ongoing consolidation of farmer-representative organizations, this move represents a similar move within the agribusiness sector. It allows more strength in legislative representation, and a locus for issuing positions concerning public policy as it affects agribusiness in the state.

As far as the potential merger with PAPA, should that group's members decline to approve the proposal for joining forces, the PennAg Nominations Committee is to submit suitable candidates to achieve a full complement of the board of directors by Jan. 1. The terms of office on PennAg board are three years.

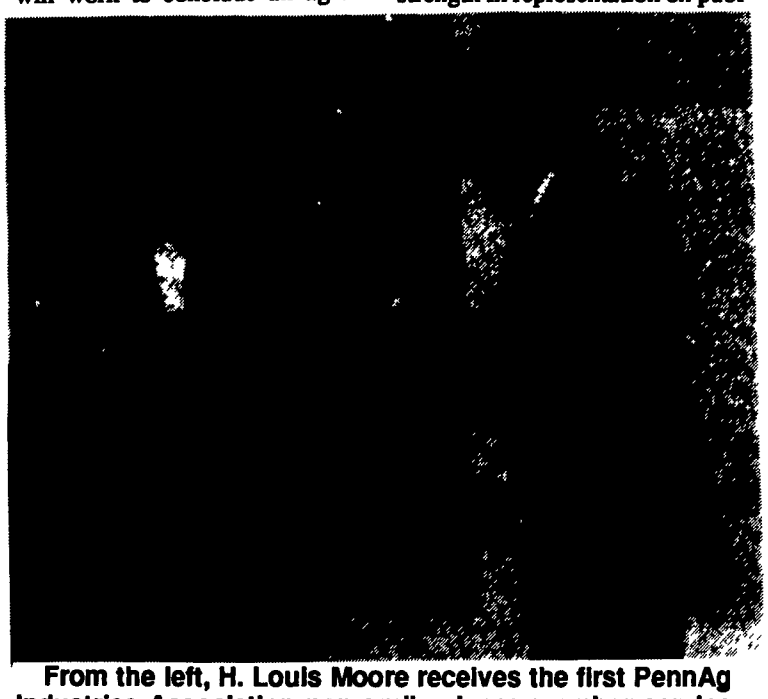
In other business, the group elected its officers for 1997, with those elected to take office Jan. 1.

George Kishbaugh, of Wengers Feed Mill, was elected president. Rich Weaver, of Nelson Weaver & Son Inc., was elected first vice president.

Jack Conrad, of EMM, was elected second vice president; Mark Wagner, of White Oak Mills, was elected third vice president.

Arthur McAlister, of York Ag Products was elected treasurer.

Dennis Mullane, of Taylor Byproducts, was re-elected to the board of directors.



From the left, H. Louis Moore receives the first PennAg Industries Association non-agribusiness member service award from association president Tom Brown.

H. Louis Moore stands with President Bill Clinton look-alike Damion Masson. Moore was the recipient of the PennAg Industries Association non-agribusiness member service award.

In recognitions made during the meeting, Tom Brown, currently president, was given a past president award in advance of his assuming that position in January.

In other action, for the first time ever, PennAg has established a service award to recognize the efforts of non-industry members and industry members who have shown commitment to the agribusiness community in Pennsylvania and devoted much effort and time to further its advancement and success.

Penn State University's H. Louis Moore, a long-time and well-known agricultural economist, was presented with the association's first non-industry service award.

Moore has written many columns and articles for many years for the association to help members better understand the changing business situations in the state, nation and world. Some of his best-recognized articles include a column, "Moore on Marketing," and a fictitous regular feature in the PennAg Journal he co-authored, "B&H Farm Center." The latter depicted the imaginary musings and situations of partners in a rural farm supply center in the context of relevant business issues.

Media Handling Of SE Facts

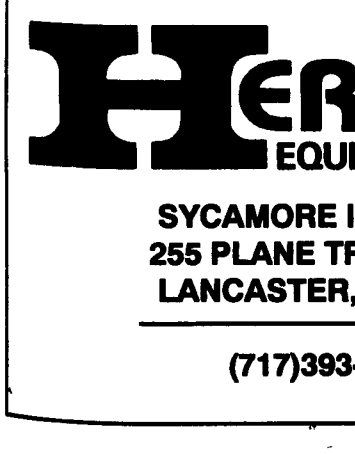
programs in the country, to Stone Phillips, anchorperson of the nightly NBC TV show. Nobody at NBC "Dateline" responded.

The segment, which aired Tuesday night on "Dateline," may have put some fears about eating eggs in the minds of many. According to Bushway, one claim made was that one in 40 people were exposed to SE in eggs — figures that Bushway and others believe are largely inflated.

Bushway was able to appear on a brief segment of the Lancaster County affiliate, WGAL TV 8, earlier in the day on Tuesday, to respond beforehand to the Dateline segment. She indicated that eggs, if handled and cooked properly, are perfectly safe, and that getting sick from eating eggs "is pretty rare." Actual figures put SE in about two eggs in 10,000 from contaminated farms, which is far less of a risk than many media organizations reveal.

Producers can benefit from some of the work the coalition does full-time to communicate with the media and spread the truth about SE. Memberships stretch across seven states in the Northeast, including Pennsylvania, New York, Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey, Massachusetts, and Maine, according to Bushway.



Christine Bushway

Dr. Richard L. Dutton

The coalition, formed four years ago, was started to "respond to the kinds of things we saw" as a result of the Dateline segment and similar stories. The coalition receives cooperative funding from the American Egg Board to place radio, TV, and print advertising about the value of eggs.

More and more, the coalition is turning to radio as an effective, tried-and-true way to reach people.

"Radio is a huge media market today, an important media market," said Bushway. People turn to radio because more have time to listen to it, with increased drive time to work. Also, the coalition can negotiate more with radio stations to maximize the use of money allowable.

Last Christmas, the coalition helped put together a 60- second radio spot, "Dreaming of An Egg White Christmas!" Close to 3,000 people in the Northeast heard the radio spot and asked for the brochure of nine holiday recipes that use egg whites. The recipe brochure is available from the Northeast Egg Promotion Coalition, P.O. Box 508, Hampton, NH 03843. Last year, the coalition ran 698 spots in mostly localized markets, said Bushway. This year they've requested 575 spots on radio to appeal to women, the primary egg buyer in most households.

However, "almost 50 percent of the people who wrote in were men," she said, responding to the "cholesterol message." Regarding how to combat SE, a noted flock health veterinarian from the Midwest spoke to egg producers during the morning portion of Wednesday's program.

Dr. Richard L. Dutton, flock health veterinarian for M.G. Waldbaum Company, Wakefield, Neb., spoke about his company's firsthand experience with SE and offered suggestions on how to combat it through management.

Dutton manages flock health for 13 million layers and six million pullets for the company in Wakefield, home to about 1,100 people.

In the past few years, Waldbaum has decreased the numbers of birds under contract. Six years ago, there were more than 100 farms under independent contract, with a total of two million birds. Now, about 300,000 are under independent contract.

As for SE testing, the Northeast and California are the most active in programs, according to Dutton. California tests about 70 percent of their flocks for SE, compared to maybe 15-25 percent in the Midwest and less than 10 percent in the South.

"From a practitioner's point of view, SE is a pain," Dutton told those who attended the show. Some view SE as a political problem, some a breeder problem, others a rodent problem. But food safety issues are with producers today, "whether we like it or not," he said.

"Too many people stick their head in the sand and ignore the problem," he said. However, Waldbaum, because of an experience with SE in homemade ice cream, was able to quickly isolate the problem (with two of their own layer houses in Colorado) and deal with it.

As a result, they have learned a great deal about how to check for SE and stop it. The important elements are to check the overall bird health environment, check the manure belts for SE, stop rodents, and perform proper cleaning and disinfection.

Whatever the cause of SE, said Dutton, "you can't be a pansy — you have to really go after the problem." At the show's Monday conference, 10-minute presentations were given on a host of poultry health issues. On Thursday, competitive exclusion and Salmonella was the spotlight, along with the view on exports.

About 150 producers and agri-industry representatives were registered on Wednesday's programs, and hundreds of producers enjoyed a free boxed lunch, courtesy of the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation, which sponsored the two-day event.

Hundreds visited the exhibit hall on Tuesday and Wednesday this week at the annual Northeast Poultry Show.

Supreme Swine Honors to York Breeders

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

Hog exhibiting at the York Fair has traditionally brought out a top-quality line of breeding and market swine that continue on to top both state and national competition.

This year's show was no exception, with the Supreme Champion titles split among several of the county's best known swine breeding herds.

Taking the Supreme Gilt title was the Berkshire champion bred and exhibited by the Greg and Beth Innerst family, Red Lion.

Youth exhibitor Allen Cornbower bested all junior and adult contenders in the runoffs to take the Supreme Boar banner with his Yorkshire entry.

Supreme Barrow was the Duroc, claiming another top title for longtime York Fair exhibitor, Rodger Bankert, Hanover. The Bankert family also took Pairs honors.

Judge for the open class show was Dr. Matt Parsons, Massachusetts. Parsons maintains breeding herds of about 250 sows and 500 ewes at his New England operation.

A list of York Fair open class swine breed champions follows:

Specht Is All-American Image Winner

the board of directors and show superintendent for 10 years.

The specially crafted stained glass hanging mirror which Specht will receive is inscribed "Awarded to an individual who has enhanced the image of the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show by significant contributions toward its reputation, prestige and welfare." John L. Morris, the 1995 Image Award winner and chairman of the awards committee, said, "Larry has worked diligently to improve the show and has handled the many operational problems in a deliberate and unassuming manner. The All-American Show is immeasurably better because of his unselfish efforts."

This is the fourth year the Image Award has been presented. In addition to Morris, other winners include John Walker, Pittsburgh; Lee Yost, deceased; and Stephen Spencer, State College.

Specht's pedigree reads like an "All-American" farm boy. Reared on a dairy farm in New York State, he was a member of both 4-H and FFA. He attended Cornell University where he earned a BS degree. He earned both a Master Degree and a Ph.D. degree from Michigan State University.

He was a 4-H Club agent in Oneida County, New York, before coming to Pennsylvania as an extension dairy specialist with the University. For 22 years Specht edited the "Dairy Digest," a Dairy extension newsletter which provides reference material to county agents and industry leaders.

As an adviser to Pennsylvania DHIA, Specht was instrumental in the conversion of the DHIA program from hand-calculated records to electronic data processing.

In his leadership capacity with Pennsylvania-based AI units, his innovative ideas of herdmate comparison and "sons of sires" reports in establishing breeding value have been recognized as milestones in measuring genetic progress. He also promoted young sire testing programs in the AI industry, the development of DHIA cow and sire evaluation reports and the information that would lead to more accurate sire evaluation.

Specht also served as an adviser to the Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association, and is a member of the American Dairy Science Association. A supporter of the Dairy Shrine, he has served as Pennsylvania membership chairman, and on its board of directors.

The award is presented as a recognition and deep appreciation for his efforts on behalf of the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show. Specht and his wife Elizabeth, also a Penn State graduate, have six children, five of whom graduated from Penn State.

World Dairy Expo Is 30

MADISON, Wis. — Two partners who have helped bring Wisconsin's dairy industry to the world will celebrate 30 years of success during opening ceremonies for the 1996 World Dairy Expo.

The 30th Expo will be held at the Dane County Expo Center in Madison, Wisconsin, Oct. 2-6.

World Dairy Expo and the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection have invited past officials and dairy industry leaders to contribute mementos to a milk-can-turned-time capsule. Sealed into the can will be items representing dairying 30 years ago and today, along with some predictions for the next 30 years.

The capsule will be stored and opened at the end of the next 30 years. The opening ceremony will be at 9 a.m., Oct. 2 in front of the globe on the Expo grounds.

The first World Dairy Expo was held in 1967. Known in its early years at the World Food Exposition, World Dairy Expo has seen tremendous growth over the past 30 years. In 1995 more than 68,700 people came from 78 countries to see 1,800 head of cattle compete in seven breed shows along with more than 1,200 booths of dairy technology exhibits.

That was also the first year that the state agriculture department's marketing division ventured into world markets, establishing ties with Japanese importers and participating in an international food show.

"When we began offering export services in 1966, one of our earliest steps was to help organize the first World Dairy Expo," said Debbie Crave, current director of the ag department's International Agri-Business Center.

Hours for World Dairy Expo are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday and 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday.

For more information on opening ceremonies or to receive a daily schedule contact World Dairy Expo at 608-224-6455.

was presented to John J. Hess II, of Hess Mills, in Paradise. A past president, Hess has served as the association's treasurer for 21 years.

The association also heard several speakers during its two-day event.

William Matuszeksi, with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, brought the group up to date on achievements and situations concerning the Chesapeake Bay. John Doornbos, a manure expert with The Netherlands Ministry of Agriculture, Nature Management and Fisheries, discussed the unique factors affecting the management of manure in the low-lying region and the effects on soil conditions.

The banquet speaker was James Miller, former director of the U.S. Office of Management and Budget, in the President Regan administration.

Miller discussed how certain aspects of societal and business function in the United States need to be bolstered in order to shore up the foundation for a strong future.

More specifically, Miller discussed the need for proper generational transfer of knowledge, capital investment in business, elimination of welfare systems that provide no freedom for escape, and overwhelming taxation and regulation as aspects of U.S. governance which need to be changed in order to provide a path for success.

Also speaking was an industry panel that consisted of Tim Bowser, with the Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture; John Reininger with Hatfield Quality Meats; Mike Horn, with Pennfield Corporation; Barry Shaw with Wenger's Feed Mill; and Paul Shaw with organic food grower and dealer Walnut Acres.

Overall, the panel all seemed to agree that while change has been a constant for agribusiness, the speed of change has perhaps never been as fast.

The prediction was that change should be expected to continue at a fast pace and that successful business will anticipate change and consumer products needs, even before consumers become aware that they need these products.

Questions from the group to the panel seemed to focus more on the growth of the organic food industry and its growing acceptance by the mainstream general public.

Though efforts have been underway for years to create a United States-wide certification program for organic food raising and processing, that goal may still take some time, as it has been apparent that for every aspect of traditional agriculture there appears to be an "organic" version with which to deal and consider for regulation for certification.

A guest speaker during the luncheon provided some humorous relief. Damion Masson, a President Clinton look-alike and imitator, entertained the group by giving a "speech" and fielding questions from the audience. He later posed for photographs with some of the members.

Poultry Exports Triple And Still Growing

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Jim Sumner believes that consumption of poultry has peaked in the U.S., but that doesn't mean there is no room for expansion in the poultry industry.

"Ninety-six percent of the world's consumers are outside of the U.S.," said Sumner who is president of the US.A. Poultry & Egg Export Council with headquarters in Georgia.

At the Producer Day held Thursday at the Northeast Poultry Show, Sumner said, "Poultry exports have tripled in value in the last five years. Exports will support continual expansion if we are prepared to battle politics, to provide a quality product, and to make a commitment to marketing," he said.

"This year's totals are right on target to hit an all-time high of $2.6 billion," said Sumner.

Exports mean more dollars in poultry producers pockets even if they aren't personally involved in the export business, according to Sumner.

A three percent increase in egg exports results in 15 cents per dozen more for egg producers because of the increased demand. Without exports, the U.S. would have over production, according to Sumner.

He reminded producers that leg quarters had been selling for 18 cents per pound and are now at 53 cents a pound.

Sumner attributes that price increase to the overwhelming demand for leg quarters that primarily comes from Russia, which, last year, imported 674,000 metric tons of leg quarters.

Because of exports to Hong Kong, poultry producers are being paid 45 cents a pound for chicken feet compared to only one to two cents a few years ago.

"We're setting the pace for the world," Sumner said of the U.S.'s export expansion. The U.S. is the lowest cost producer of poultry in the world."

While some people blame the U.S. for putting Russian poultry producers out of business, Sumner refutes that by pointing out that the Russians bought their own demise upon themselves during the Communist regime when facilites became outdated and over staffed.

"We supply the lowest price protein their (Russian) money can buy. If the U.S. wasn't supplying them, another country would be," he said.

Even if the Russians were given the money to update their country's poultry industry, Sumner said that it would take at least 10 years before they could meet their own demand for poultry.

However, Sumner concedes, that it is a bit unnerving to have Russia and China as the U.S.'s largest poultry importers. Last year 60 percent of imports went to Russia and China, which are known for their volatile natures.

He referred to Russia's ban of imports from the U.S. earlier this year. The ban lasted only a month despite Russian threats, but Sumner said that a mistake on the part of this country gave the Russians an opportunity to complain about everything.

Sumner explained that improperly frozen poultry was shipped by mistake. When the meat arrived, it was spoiled.

A U.S. task force of processors was immediately formed to resolve the problem.

Although Sumner said, that he isn't a Democrat, he believes that the problem wouldn't have been resolved as quickly if any person other than Clinton had been in office as President. It helps that Clinton is a personal friend of the poultry industry in Arkansas, he said facetiously.

Sumner believes that politics plays a definite role in marketing and exporting.

The trade problem with Russia showed some positive signs, according to Sumner. These included the government asking the poultry industry how to handle the problems instead of dictating what should be done. It demonstrated an increased awareness of the export business upon the economy, the need to take quality control seriously, and it made the government better negotiators.

Turkey and egg exports are growing but not as quickly as broiler exports. About 60 percent of egg exports are in processed form rather than table eggs. Many countries are astounded by powdered eggs and the many egg products available.

During Poultry Days, Jim Sumner, right, talks about poultry exports with Poultry Federation president John Hoffman, center, and Dr. Norman Stern, who spoke about research on eliminating salmonella.

In five years, turkey exports have grown from 31,000 to 122,000 metric tons. Mexico is the number one market for turkey exports. Although the market has steadily grown, the collapse of the peso has caused a drop in export revenues from Mexico.

While Sumner wholeheartedly believes in the future of exports, he stressed that it takes a commitment on the part of producers and industry to make expansion a reality.

MUN Testing Easy

DAVID BIGELOW
Training Coordinator

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Do you know if your milk urea nitrogen values are too high or too low, or in balance?

Values too high or too low suggest a nutritional imbalance. Taking care of, or fixing, a nutritional imbalance could decrease feed cost, improve production, improve body condition and minimize nitrogen pollution from animal waste.

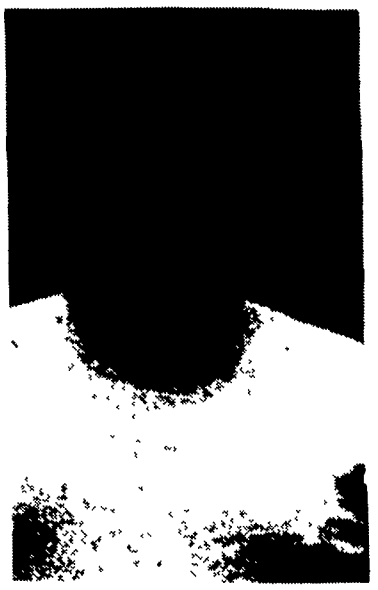
The very next time you test your herd, you can know the answer to the MUN value question by simply asking the Pennsylvania Dairy Herd Improvement Association technician who serves your herd to put you on the MUN option. It's easy and costs 15 cents per cow.

There is no need for an additional sample to be taken to get MUN values. The milk sample currently being used to monitor fat, protein and somatic cell count can be used to monitor MUN values.

Keep in mind, once the results are received from the laboratory at Pa.DHIA, your veterinarian, feed consultant, nutritionist, extension agent, or other professional, are available to help interpret the results for your situation.

Call (800) 344-8378 if we can assist in your dairy operation.

Cochenour Finishes Training



Will Cochenour
Mercer Co. Technician

DAVID BIGELOW
Training Coordinator

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Will Cochenour, a Pa.DHIA technician serving Mercer County, recently completed studies at the Pa.DHIA training seminar held in State College.

Cochenour is currently responsible for serving 16 herds which consist of 650 cows on a monthly basis in the Mercer County area.

Prior to joining Pa.DHIA Cochenour was a customer service representative for Preston Trucking. His experience of dealing with customers and fellow employees should be of benefit in his job at a Pa.DHIA technician.

Cochenour said he enjoys working with the dairymen on his circuit.

"Getting out and meeting people, being able to set my own schedule, helping to solve and answer farmers' questions along with working hand-in-hand with the farmer to increase his production and farm income" are some of the things he said he most enjoys about his job.

Will was raised on a farm in Westmoreland County and he is currently a part-time field assistant for the U.S. Farm Service Agency in Mercer County, as well as a crop adjuster for the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation. This additional on-farm experience is expected to be a benefit to his service as a technician.

Outside of work, Will serves as a deacon for the Unity Presbyterian Church.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania.

Remember, these are averages, so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

33rd All-American Is Dairy Enthusiasts' Gala

smaller, less visible breeders of cattle.

The reason is simple. A well-developed show quality cow should also have a better chance of producing well and living longer.

(Though show animals tend to be larger in frame and according to some authorities and some dairy farmer experience smaller stature cows tend to live longer. An index for predicting longevity that is starting to be accepted in the dairy cattle industry should eventually bear out importance of size over balance.)

And nowhere else in Pennsylvania is there the opportunity to see lots of top quality dairy cattle of all major dairy breeds.

To further provide opportunities for all dairy cattle farmers, last year for the first time a special events area was set up in conjunction with the PAADS — the Dairy Activity Center (DAC).

Located on the first floor of the state Farm Show Complex's Northeast Building, adjacent to the Large Arena, the activity center featured seminars on a variety of items and issues. That is to be repeated this year and expanded.

In the DAC, commercial dairy vendors are mixed in with craft vendors, commodity food stands, and a stage for presentations. Educational presentations are to be offered.

This year, a day has been set aside for a dairy facilities and buildings trade show.

Scheduled to be held from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 26, the show is expected to provide dairy farmers with the opportunity to see first-hand what agribusinesses can do to assist in renovations, expansions and improvements. There is no cost to the public to attend.

A number of commercial vendors and e: perts are scheduled to participate.

Those who attend the trade show can expect to get information on a number of dairy cattle raising considerations, from constructing the relatively new, so-called "greenhouse" barns for raising calves, heifers or for housing cows; freestall barn designs; waterers; milking facilities and milkhouse waste; ventilation considerations, and many other aspects of dairy cattle facilties.

"Dairymen who are looking to expand or make changes in their operations will find the vendors at the show most helpful," said Lolly Lesher, show promotion coordinator for PAADS. "Information will be available on everything from workmen's compensation insurance plans, to milk marketing opportunities, artificial insemination services and dairy herd testing."

On Monday, Sept. 23, at 10 a.m., Dr. Michael Lormor, a veterinarian is to discuss how to assess the profit potential of a dairy herd. His seminar is being sponsored by Monsanto.

At 1 p.m., Monday, in the DAC, Gary Holcomb of Hereford, Texas, is to discuss how to make the most of raising replacement animals. His talk is sponsored by Elanco Animal Health products.

A Penn State Dairymen's craft show — a Country Craft Market — in the DAC is to offer the opportunity for early holiday shopping for such things as dried flowers, dolls, "cowmania" items and many gifts. Also an embroidery service is to be available to personalize gifts.

In addition, a display of Bonnie Mohr's rural American artwork featuring dairy farm scenes is planned.

The craft show, called the Country Craft Market, is set to open Saturday, Sept. 21, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., and then have hours from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m., Sept. 22-25. The last day of the PAADS, the craft show is to be open for business from 9 a.m until 5 p.m.

Youth Events

On Monday, Sept. 23, starting at 8 a.m., the state's youth — 4-H and FFA combined — are to compete for their respective breed championships in the Large Arena of the Farm Show Complex.

Three different show rings are customarily setup inside the Large Arena to provide for the concurrent breed shows.

According to show officials, 1,075 animals are entered for the youth dairy shows, having first qualified at district-level shows across the state.

For youth exhibiting Jersey cattle that day, a committee is to be watching from ringside to select animals to represent Pennsylvania at the North American International Livestock Exhibition at Louisville, Kentucky, on Nov. 9.

The cost of the trip to the NAILE event for youth whose cattle are selected will be picked up largely through donations from businesses and individuals throughout the state. Anyone wishing to make a contribution should contact David Norman, secretary/treasurer of the Pennsylvania Jersey Cattle Association, RR1, Box 30, Liberty, PA 16930, (717) 324-5631.

The same time the youth dairy shows are going on, youth from across the nation are to be competing in an Invitational Youth Dairy Cattle Judging Contest. The annual contest, held in the Small Arena, is open to 4-H, FFA and collegiate judging teams.

According to show officials, 140 youth are entered in the judging contest, representing 15 4-H teams, nine FFA teams, and 12 collegiate teams.

(An awards banquet for the invitational judging contest is to be held at 7 p.m. Monday at the Sheraton Harrisburg East, a short drive from the Farm Show Complex.)

Two other major youth events are scheduled to be held Tuesday Sept. 24 — the Junior Dairy Management Contest and the Pennsylvania 4-H and FFA Dairy Judging Forum.

The dairy management contest tests a wide-range of dairy management knowledge, from identifying feeds and balancing rations, to the latest techniques of reproduction management, breeding programs, facilities, health care, and much more.

Show officials said this week that 80 youth are expected to compete. The top winner is to receive a $500 educational scholarship.

The judging forum helps youth understand better how to look at the animal, what to look for, how to form decisions and justify them.

Youth Meetings

On Sunday, Sept. 22, prior to the shows, Brown Swiss, Jersy, and Ayrshire youth organizations have scheduled activities.

At 6:30 p.m., Brown Swiss youth are to hold a social event in the Dairy Activities Center.

The Pennsylvania Jersey Junior Association is to hold a meeting at 7 p.m. in Room C, located on the second floor of the Farm Show Lobby Building (along McClay Street).

The Pennsylvania Ayrshire youth have scheduled a meeting and social at the same time in Room E3 (located in the same area as the Jersey youth meeting).

Guernsey youth are set to meet earlier, at 5 p.m., in Room D, also in the same area.

For all youth, at 7 p.m. Sunday, a careers and opportunities night is scheduled to be held in the DAC, followed at 8 p.m. by a social/fun event — the Junior Dairy Show Olympics — in the Small Arena.

Open Dairy Shows

The dairy cattle shows and sales, however, are the meat of the PAADS — six national shows and two national sales.

About 1,400 dairy animals are to be at the Farm Show Complex for the week, representing the Holstein, Jersey, Brown Swiss, Milking Shorthorn, Ayrshire, and Guernsey breeds.

There are three open dairy shows on Tuesday, two on Wednesday and two on Thursday. All the open dairy shows are held in the Large Arena.

The Pennsylvania Fall Holstein Championship is set to start 9 a.m., Tuesday, Sept. 24, in the Large Arena. It features and open division and a youth division.

The fall state championship is the final major state Holstein Association show, and can be counted on to offer depth of quality and seriousness of competition.

Along with selecting class winners for the show, officials are to be announcing the 1996 All-Pennsylvania winners, a competition based on show placings compiled from exhibiting at the spring show, regional shows and the fall show.

Results of the All-Pennsylvania are published annually in October.

Dennis Patrick, of Woodbine, Md., is to judge the 16th annual show.

In addition to the Fall Holstein Championship, there will be the selection of the 1996 Keystone Futurity. There are 40 animals eligible to compete for the more than $900 in prize money.

Another special award is made during the championship show — the selection of the winner of the George M. Knight Jr. Total Performance Award, a distinction that combines show ring results along with with actual dairy production.

Also starting at 9 a.m. on Tuesday, the Eastern National Ayrshire Show is to take place in the Large Arena with 147 animals entered.

The Eastern National Milking Shorthorn Show follows the Holstein show and is scheduled to start at 3 p.m. There are 149 animals entered for that show.

On Wednesday, two national shows start promptly at 9 a.m. — the National Guernsey Show with 214 entries, and the Eastern National Brown Swiss Show, with 227 animals entered. Again, both offer depth and quality.

Thursday morning at 8 a.m. are the Eastern National Holstein Show, with 426 cattle entered from up and down the coast and inland, and the Mid-Atlantic Regional Jersey Show with 232 animals entered.

The grand finale of the week-long dairy exposition is the selection of the supreme champion of all breeds, which is slated to start at about 3 p.m., following the conclusion of the Holstein and Jersey shows.

The state secretary of agriculture is usually on hand to present the banner to the winner, selected by several of the show judges.

Sponsors for the PAADS include the Pa. Department of Agriculture, the Pennsylvania Farm Show Commission, and the Pennsylvania Dairy and Allied Industry Association.

Cattle Sales

Cattle sales are also a highlight of the PAADS and they are held in the Small Arena at the complex.

Normally there is an Eastern National Holstein Sale, but it was cancelled this year. It is planned to be held next year.

Of the two cattle sales set for this year, the first of the week is the Milking Shorthorn sale, scheduled to be held 2 p.m., Monday, Sept. 23.

At noon Wednesday the Top of the Harvest Jersey Sale is scheduled to start.

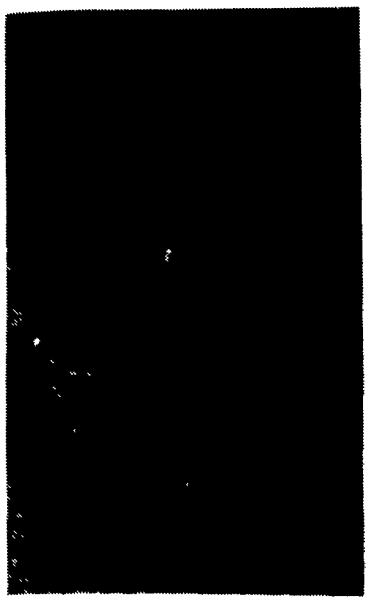
Manure Treatment, Marketing Require 'Imagination'



In Holland, manure treatment not only has enormous benefits for producers, it's necessary in order to comply with restrictive environmental regulations. Finding ways to successfully treat and market manure is simply a matter of imagination, according to John Doornbos, director of information on organic minerals for the Dutch Ministry of Agriculture, Nature Management and Fisheries.

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — In Holland, manure treatment not only has enormous benefits for producers, it's necessary in order to comply with restrictive environmental regulations.

Finding ways to successfully treat and market manure is simply a matter of imagination, according to John Doornbos, director of information on organic minerals for the Dutch Ministry of Agriculture, Nature Management and Fisheries.

Doornbos spoke to 14 producers and agri-industry representatives on Wednesday night at the Farm and Home Center in Lancaster.

"It's not difficult to turn waste into value," said Doornbos. "It's just a matter of imagination."

Producers in Holland have come to accept treating manure and learning how to market it, "because they see the benefits of it, including less odors," he said. The cost of transporting an untreated material is prohibitive over long distances, in a country that moves manure up to about 300 miles to countries such as France and Germany.

Doornbos spoke about ways that producers have come up with, on their own, to "valorize" the manure. Valorization is their name for drying the material and putting it into a pelletized form to be used by the horticultural industry.

Holland, like other countries in the Netherlands, has a surplus of manure. In all, animal agriculture operations generate about 16 million tons per year. For that reason, considering how small the country is, ways were needed to process and market it.

About 70 percent of the nation's total manure surplus comes from the pig breeding sector, he said. For breeding farms, there are a total of 1.5 million sows in the country, with 150-175 animals per farm. There are about 7,000 finishing farms in the country, with about 1,000-1,200 hogs per farm.

Holland farmers are forbidden by law to spread manure for 9-10 months of the year, said Doornbos, a graduate of Wageningen Agricultural University, Netherlands. They must invest in storage facilities, mostly concrete silos that are covered with corrugated iron sheets or lighter materials, including strong plastics. The silos are protected from wind and rain. When the manure is applied, it must be injected — spraying is completely forbidden, he said.

As a result of these pressures, farmers have come up with ways to dry down the manure to a marketable form on the farms by a variety of ways, which Doornbos explained to producers at the meeting.

While all the ways proved somewhat expensive, most producers are able to market a product — as long as it is dried down considerably. Doornbos examined a wide variety of ways, including a belted, stacked system for layer manure that takes the material through a tunnel and is dried.

Certain kinds of manure, however, can do well on the market.

In Holland, there are 38 million layers on 2,500 farms, with about 15,000 animals per farm. The broiler industry numbers 44 million birds on 1,300 farms, with a total of 35,000 birds per farm. The total poultry manure production is 2.5 million tons per year.

Right now, Holland's poultry industry can take their material and dry it down a number of ways. Besides the belted tunnel system, a floor drying method produces a nicely dried, completely stable, nice product, indicated Doornbos.

With these methods, "farmers are better off," he said. "It is feasible and profitable to make an investment in this kind of treatment." The system controls fly problems, requires less storage capacity for manure, allows producers to have the room for more birds, and provides a better, stable climate for the birds.

The technology is there for creating a manure product. Only trouble is, what is lagging largely behind, he said, is marketing.

$4,400 Top At Somerset Fall Classic

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

MEYERSDALE (Somerset Co.) — Cove-Run AJ Isabella, a daughter of Bridon-Astro Jet-ET and Cove Run Inna, at the Somerset Fall Classic sold for the most bucks — $4,400 — to Roland Roudabush of Mt. Solon, Virginia.

Consigned by Douglas N. Bender of Accident, Md., the beauty was born on August 13, 1993, but unclassified at the time of the sale.

Her dam, a very good daughter out of Hanoverhill Inspiration, has a DHR record of 28,430 pounds of milk and 3.4 percent or 953 pounds of fat.

Isabella, first in her class, earlier at both the Somerset County and Garrett County Holstein shows, seems to own the style of udder that also pleases the keen eye of a good judge.

"Dad always told me, 'if you sell a cow, sell a good one,'" said Bender, whose dad, Oren Bender, also of Accident also read the various pedigrees.

He said his dad's sage advice during his growing up years was to sell a good cow when there's a good opportunity.

Apparently, in the minds of many dairymen, "good opportunity," is synonomous with Somerset's annual, late summer Holstein sale, whom many, such as premier buyer Gary Lynch, describe as one having animals of very high quality to offer to interested bidders.

Lynch, who operates a modern dairy near Friedens in Somerset County, laid out a tidy $13,025 for some 11 head of registered animals to increase his own stock of black and whites.

"We're putting up a whole new set-up and expanding our own herd," he said.

"It's hard to find a much better sale when you are looking for good animals," he declared, adding that the sponsoring Somerset County Holstein Club "always put their best into it."

Lynch said the acquisition was his first buying experience at the sale, but said that in the past he has had consignments there.

The second highest seller was a daughter out of Hanoverhill Starbuck and Pamtom Broker Sallie H-ET, that sold for $2,000. Registration is in process.

Wayne and Dale Mast of Grantsville, Md. were consignors of the animal born in March of this year.

Statistician Vera Yoder gave $65,850 as the sale total.

Mrs. Yoder said that a choice of flush that sold for $1,000, and the single sale of three embryos at $975 are not included in the following averages.

Eighteen cows averaged $1,693; 17 bred heifers averaged $1,495; three calves from six to 12 months averaged $700, and four calves from zero to six months averaged $1,469.

Buyers, besides having Pennsylvania and Virginia addresses, also came from Maryland and West Virginia.

Veteran auctioneer Clark Yoder handled the evening's bidding while Steven Pheasant and Rick Foreman were the ringmen.

Scott Foreman and David Stahl (despite a broken arm), organized the affair, which offered tasty barbecued chicken dinners prior to the serious business at hand.

Cove-Run AJ Isabella, led by Ben Miller sold at the Somerset Fall Classic for $4,400 to Roland Roudabush of Mt. Solon, Va.

Tobacco News From Paradise:

After the third sale your tobacco will be sold if owner is not there to reject his crop. The farmer can no longer call in and tell someone to reject his crop for minimum. After the third sale we cannot afford all the misunderstandings with minimums.

Please, farmers - we still want to market your crop at Paradise but we can only exist with volume at our commission rates. We are not trying to be smart - just saying what we must do to exist.

If we at the warehouse supply each buyer with an adequate amount of tobacco, we will have competition in the warehouse. That means we must make sure that each buyer can buy tobacco in volume - keeping them in the warehouse is what we want to do. We no longer can move tobacco out the back door to meet minimums.

Chesapeake Bay Commission Recognizes Feed Mill

RHEEMS (Lancaster Co.) — The Chesapeake Bay Commission recently honored Wenger's Feed Mill, Inc. of Rheems, for its commitment to environmentally sound agriculture. The award presentation was made at the commission's September 12 quarterly meeting at Pennsylvania State University.

The commission, dedicated to reducing nutrient pollution in the Chesapeake Bay, cited Wenger's for supplementing its layer feeds with Natuphos™, a phytase feed enzyme which aids in reducing phosphorous pollution levels. BASF Corporation's Animal Nutrition business, marketer of Natuphos, also was recognized by the commission.

Phosphorous in waste runoff from animal production operations is an increasing concern in the commission's three represented states — Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia. The recent introduction of Natuphos has the potential to dramatically decrease phosphorus pollution levels, the commission reports.

"We recognize Wenger Feeds and BASF for promoting environmental responsibility, and for helping bring governmental and environmental groups together with commercial agriculture to form important synergies in protecting the Chesapeake Bay," said Senator Noah Wenger, chairman of the Chesapeake Bay Commission.

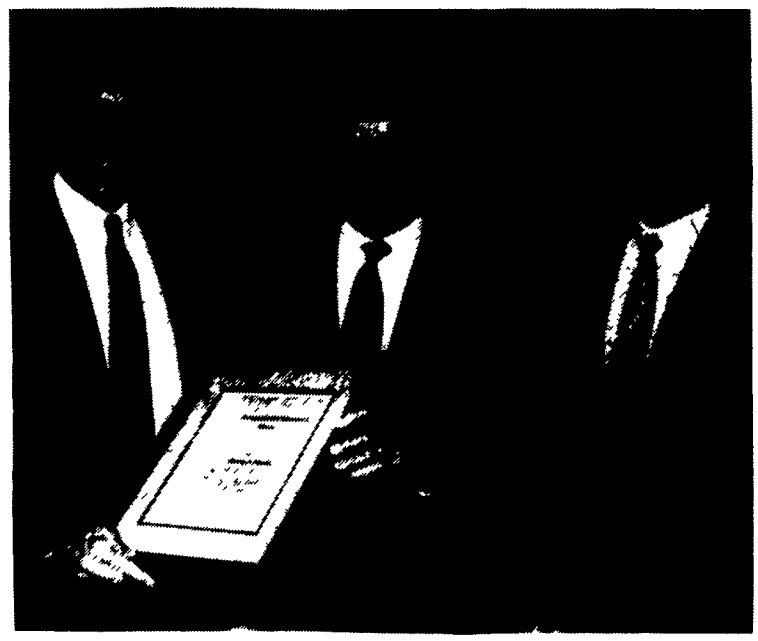
"Our philosophy as a company is to stay on the leading edge of feed technology, and produce high-quality feeds," said Barry Shaw, chief executive officer of Wenger Feeds. "Supplementing Natuphos in our feed addresses key environmental concerns, in addition to providing nutritional and economic benefits. Our research has shown improved eggshell quality, and our egg producers have reacted favorably to the addition of Natuphos." Wenger Feeds was the first facility in the country to include Natuphos into its poultry feeds.

Natuphos, introduced to the U.S. market earlier this year, increases naturally occurring phosphorous availability by 20 to 30 percent in swine and poultry dietes, allowing producers to reduce inorganic supplementation. In addition to economic benefits, the improved nutrient utilization decreases phosphorous levels in animal wastes, thereby reducing the potential for pollution.

The commission's goal is to cut nitrogen and phosphorous levels in the bay by 40 percent by the year 2000. It has been active in promoting proper animal nutrition as a way of reducing nutrient levels in animal manure because of its positive environmental and economic impacts. The commission hosted an international symposium in 1994 that brought together researchers and the agriculture industry, including Wenger Feeds, to highlight the benefits of feed formulation for both agriculture and the environment.

Al Wenger, executive officer, and Jim Adams, director of operations and technical services for Wenger's, accepted the award for the company.

Incorporated in 1948, Wenger Feeds has grown from its roots as a solid, quality-oriented feed company, to become one of the largest agricultural feed and service companies for poultry and swine producers in the Mid-Atlantic region. Wenger's has production facilities in Rheems, Gettysburg, Mount Joy and Spring Glen, Pa.; and in Massey, Md.



Al Wenger, executive officer, Wenger Feeds, left, receives honors from State Senator Noah Wenger, chairman Chesapeake Bay Commission. Jim Adams, director of operations for Wenger Feeds looks on.

KENNETT SQUARE (Chester Co.) — University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine is holding an open house today from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. of its New Bolton Center rural campus and large animal facility, located along West Street Road in Kennett Square.

The public is invitd to view the New Bolton large animal hospital and the small animal hospital (VHUP). There are to be various exhibits reflecting the school's commitment to teaching, research, and clinical care.

The George D. Widener Hospital for large animals has surgical suites, pool recovery, ultrasound, scintigraphy, neonatal intensive care and intensive care units for large animals.

The VHUP is to be represented by its Boodmobile and emergency service and intensive care unit exhibits.

Best Friends Take Champion Sheep Honors At Solanco Fair

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — With 55 entries shown by 33 exhibitors, the Solanco Fair Sheep Show on Wednesday started right on par with other years.

Two best friends shared the limelight for the champion market lamb. Ten-year-old Allison Hughes took the grand champion trophy for a crossbred purchased from Lloyd Reiff of Strasburg. Her classmate Tiffany Dean took the reserve champion trophy with a crossbred purchased from Tim Fleener of Robesonia.

Judge John Eaton said that the two lambs had style, balance, and muscle. He said that Allison's lamb perhaps had a slight edge in being well-balanced although Tiffany's was a bit longer.

Allison, daughter of Chet and Marie Hughes of Lampeter, has shown her 4-H project sheep for three years. She called the champion Spot because of a dark spot on his back. "I walked him a lot because he was a jumper. He behaved better if he could walk beside his sister," Allison said.

Tiffany had shown the champion market lamb last year at Solanco and this year at the county 4-H Roundup. The 10-year-old daughter of Joan and Gary Dean of Strasburg, called her ewe Dominoes because of his black and white coloring.

The Solanco Fair has only market lamb and showmanship competition, but no breeding sheep.

The showmanship competition was divided into four classes, from which the top two places from each class competed for the grand champion title. Tyler Swansen, a 10th grade Penn Manor FFA'er, impressed the judge with his complete, smooth movements with his lamb and the eye contact he maintained with the judge.

"You can tell he spends time with his lamb," Judge Eaton said.

Tyler's lamb Kendra is one of three that Tyler raises for FFA projects. Tyler is the son of John and Debra Swanson of Conestoga.

Taking the reserve champion showman title was Jessica Schmidt, a previous first-place champion at the fair. She showed her lamb Maverick, which she raises at her parents', Peter and Laurie Schmidt's' farm in Drumore.

Here is a partial listing of winners.

Penn Manor FFA'er Tyler Swanson is top showman at Solanco Fair and Jessica Schmidt is the reserve.

Showing the grand champion and reserve market lambs at Solanco Fair are best friends Allison Hughes, right, and Tiffany Dean, respectively.

Dairylea Issues Position On Basic Formula Price

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Traditional classified pricing and marketwide pooling will continue to be the most appropriate mechanism for the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) to use in determining milk prices, according to Dairylea Director of Planning and Regulatory Policy Edward Gallagher.

Testifying at the recent Basic Formula Price (BFP) Forum held in Madison, Wisconsin — part of the USDA's Federal Order consolidation process — Gallagher called for the development of a BFP that more closely reflects the value of milk used in Class III-type manufactured dairy products.

"There ils no overriding, exact and universal price for Class III milk," explained Gallagher. "What is important is to have a fair approximation of that value to assure that producers and handlers are treated equitably. Competitive pay prices represent the most efficient method of determining the value of milk for manufacturing. However, I am confident that a product price formula can be developed that appropriately approximates the national value of milk used in Class III products."

In addition, Gallagher urged the USDA to consider the following issues relating to the BFP, which are supported by Dairylea:

- BFP levels should not be any lower than the general levels that have existed under the base month Minnesota-Wisconsin (M-W) price series;
- the average annual Class III price in the Northeastern marketing order should be the same as those in the marketing orders encompassing the North Central United States;
- produce price formulas could be developed that result in an acceptable substitute to competitive pay price series;
- competitively determined product prices incorporate the general supply and demand relationships that affect the farm value of milk used in manufactured products;
- regional exchanges or surveys that reflect national supply and demand relationships are appropriate means of determining product prices; use of product prices generated on the futures exchanges is intriguing and warrants your consideration;
- consideration of the incorporation of seasonnal yield factors in a product price methodology is warranted; and
- to maintain integrity, the USDA should obtain prices if surveys are used.

"Issues relating to the Basic Formula Price are very important to Dairylea's business, its members and to the viability of the Northeast's rural economy," said Gallagher.

"Thus, it is extremely vital that the USDA incorporate our concerns into the formation of a stable, classified pricing and marketwide pooling policy that will dairy businesses to strategically plan and focus on their resource synergies and long-term goals."

Dairylea is a Syracuse-based, dairy farmer-owned cooperative with more than 2,600 member farms throughout the Northeast. It markets more than 4.5 billion pounds of milk annually and participates and is invested in a milk marketing network stretching from Maine to Maryland to Ohio.

State Diagnostic Lab Open For Business

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — On Monday, Sept. 23, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture is to open the doors of its new state-of-the art diagnostic laboratory sited adjacent to the PDA building in Harrisburg.

Also, the state has announced that it has contracted with a commercial delivery service — U.S. Cargo — to aid in the transport of animal materials for testing.

The diagnostic laboratory completes part of the conditions of full accreditation for Pennsylvania's animal agriculture testing that has been sought for a number of years, and updates facilities abilities that have been allowed to stagnate for more than a decade.

Pennsylvania lost its accreditation under the Casey administration and began then to actively seek to regain it.

The reasons for having accreditation of the state diagnostic laboratory are many, but primarily so that scientific testing required for normal agricultural business can be performed in-state.

For years now, certain required tests for such things as exporting livestock, and verifying suspected animal disease in a herd or flock, had to be performed at laboratories out of state; not only sending business and money out of state, but delaying business transactions and significantly hindering in-state's businesses' ability to compete.

The new laboratory at Harrisburg replaces a 1930's-era facility at Summerdale.

Starting Monday, those requiring the services of the diagnostic laboratory can begin sending samples for testing.

Those who need testing services, primarily veterinarians in the state, can call to arrange for delivery of packages under 20 pounds in weight by calling U.S. Cargo, before noon, at one of eight locations statewide.

Locations are in Allentown at (610)(264-4994; Franklin (814) 432-4216; Harrisburg (717) 744-5003; Philadelphia (610) 667-1655; Pittsburgh (412) 381-4730; State College (814) 238-1550; Uniontown (412) 438-5331; and Wilkes Barre (717) 829-3157.

held in conjunction with the PAADS include the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Pageant, tonight (Saturday Sept. 21), at the Sheraton Harrisburg East. The crowned princess and alternate, as well as some county princesses can be expected to help distribute awards during some of the shows. Also, specific breed royalty help in the showring as well.

On Wednesday at 5 p.m., there is to be an All-American Buffet in the DAC, as well as the presentation of the PAADS Image Award. The recipient this year is to be long-time show supporter, Dr. Larry Specht, Penn State dairy specialist. The award is presented to the individual who, through their contributions, have improved the over-all quality and prestige of the PAADS.

There is no parking fee or admission fee to PAADS, and food is available in the DAC, where the Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association will be selling milkshakes, and the Pennsylvania Pork Producer's will have their food booth.

WOODS WOODS - DuAL WOODS ALLOWAY WOODS - GANNON WOODS - GILL

Look at this array of food prepared for the Risser family gathering in 1910. Held at the Lititz home of Nathaniel and Annie (Risser) Leaman, both dinner and supper were served on the porch. Seventy-one year old Barbara (Brenenman) Risser is at the left center, the grannie with the white prayer covering tied under her chin. She is surrounded by three generations of kin. Her daughter, the hostess Annie (Risser) Leaman, sits at the head of the table. Since this is Barbara (Leaman) Moore's grandmother's birthday party, it is believed that Moore, who founded the Society of Farm Women in Lancaster County, took the photo and developed it.

BIRD IN HAND (Lancaster Co.) — Maybe you don't have Mennonite roots. Maybe you don't even know anyone in Lancaster County.

Regardless, a recently released book, "Mennonite Women of Lancaster County" by Joanne Hess Siegrist is a fascinating pictorial history of women's lives from 1855-1935.

"The book focus is Mennonite women; however, in many ways it is the story of rural women at the turn of the century, whether Lutheran, Quaker, Presbyterian, Baptist, or a variety of other backgrounds," said author Siegrist.

From the staid formal portraits to the unposed snapshots capturing everyday life, 215 pictures in the book record weddings, family gatherings, children at play, but most often the diligent hard work of women who devoted their lives to family and homemaking.

In order to find the right pictures to tell the story of women, Siegrist, nicknamed the "Picture Lady," sorted through thousands of old photographs hidden in stuffy attics throughout the county, shoved into the back of drawers, and even found some prints in an unused pig pen.

"Some families weren't willing to loan me their prints so I learned to copy old photographs on the spot with the help of antique photography copy specialist Philip Ruth of Harleysville," Siegrist said.

"Something wonderful happened as I sifted through family collections and stepped into the shoes of those long-gone mothers. I felt as though I had new eyes to understand family relationships. As the small prints were enlarged, I saw dimensions I had earlier missed," Siegrist said.

As she shared these heirlooms with others, Siegrist found they also shared her intrigue for the women of another era.

Her picture collection had such wide appeal that a book seemed the logical method for stamping a bit of history into the hearts of others.

Lots of farm-related pictures are interspersed throughout the book. Many readers will remember Barbara (Leaman) Moore, who founded Farm Women of Lancaster County in 1917 and died in 1990 at 105 years of age. Moore was also an accomplished photographer who developed her own prints as early as 1905. Several photographs included in the book were taken by her.

Pictured are women preparing rhubarb for market, cleaning elderberries for jam, shelling peas, snitzing apples, baking bread in an iron Dutch oven, corn husking, cutting off sweet corn, and butchering.

Captured are women doing ordinary chores before the day of modern appliances such as shaking rag rugs, scrubbing clothes by hand in wooden laundry tubs, and selling produce at the curb market. The diligent and frugal work of women is shown in women quilting, braiding rugs, and sewing clothes by using feed bags.

Although women were busy in the home, that did not keep them from helping on the farm. A 1914 photo captures a woman cultivating tobacco with the family mule, another hoeing in the garden, some milking cows, harvesting wheat, and feeding chickens.

The photographs reflect the happiness and contentment of raising a house full of children. These are children playing, feeding chickens, burning trash, whitewashing the fence, milking, sleding, schooling, hiking, and even enduring a shampoo under the outdoor water pump.

The different modes of transportation are captured by woman and families boarding trolley, train, horse and carriage, or setting on the running boards of a Model T. Hayrides and sleigh rides are also pictured.

Siegrist said that like many others, her own curiosity to uncover roots was spurred by the death of family members.

She knows firsthand how quickly the past slips away and the questions that arise from the absence of relatives. After the death of some family members, Siegrist tried to identify some unlabeled photographs. She discovered few persons from her grandparents' generation who remained to tell her family's stories. The stories that belonged to the pictures were all in the minds of a few older relatives.

In her search for these stories, Siegrist found the older generation eager to talk about the memories of a distant era and surprised that a younger generation was interested in "that old stuff."

Eventually, Siegrist had numerous ring binders organized with copies of photographs that she constantly updated as she accumulated more and more material from other sources.

Surprised by the quality and the stories from her own researching of the Hess family, Siegrist transferred some old photographs to slides, which she showed at a reunion. Soon more and more families were requesting that Siegrist chronicle their family's history through a slide show.

Although called the "Picture Lady," Siegrist prefers to be known as "someone who respects the past."

Siegrist said that talking with the older generation about family photographs helps to build bridges between generations.

Siegrist said that persons usually appear solemn on photographs taken before the 1900s because slow speed film required that subjects hold absolutely still without any movement. It was easier to hold a straight face longer than a smile; hence the sober faces.

Between 1918 and 1950, fewer and poorer quality photographs were the norm. This was probably due to the result of two World Wars, the Depression, and the availability of the home box camera.

Another reason for fewer prints during the early 1900s was that some persons took a baptismal vow to avoid photographs and to burn their Victorian prints. According to the research Siegrist found, women did not dress differently than their non-Mennonite neighbors until the 1900s when a train accident spurred a revival among the youth. In their attempt to show their devotion to God, they replaced their Victorian dress with an unprecedented uniform Mennonite plain garb.

Most people are clearly identified in the pictures. Generally, the photographs have several paragraphs written about the occasion. Aside from the fascinating stories provided through these captions, they give a teaching model for others in creating family story books.

There's the story of Christian Rohrer who purchased two square miles in Missouri which he divided with the hopes that each of his five daughters would marry a man from the Midwest and would then be given one of the farms. But parents' dreams for their children were no more likely to succeed then as now. Only one of the daughters married a man from the Midwest, two died at a young age, one never married, and another married a countian and settled in Lancaster County.

People who live in the same community the longest and have access to the most documentation usually value heirlooms the least of all people, according to Siegrist.

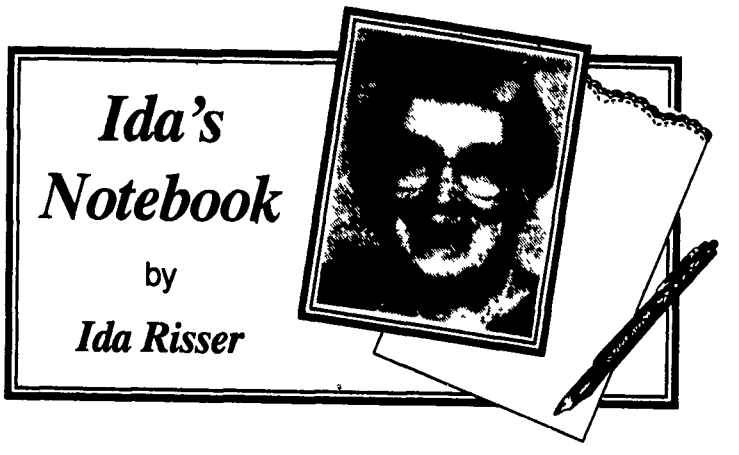
Siegrist compiled these pictures over a 12-year span. This is an unprecedented book holding the largest known published collection of documented photgraphs from 1855-1935 of Lancaster County.

Siegrist is now on a crusade to encourage others to save significant photographs and label pictures. The demand for these services caused Siegrist to launch another service. She holds workshops on gathering, documenting, and organizing heirloom photographs.

Both Siegrist and her husband, J. Donald Siegrist, M.D., grew up on Lancaster County farms. After living in seven different places, the Siegrists now live on the same road as the family farm in Bird in Hand. The Siegrists have three sons: Marc, 18; Philip, 21; and Brent, 23, who raised and sold summer produce before they were old enough to hold down paying jobs. Siegrist has been a 4-H leader for 15 years.

The 220-page soft-cover book is published by Good Books and is available through local bookstores for $14.95 or order by phone 1-800-762-7171.

For a listing of lectures and presentations offered by Siegrist, contact her at 457 Beechdale Rd., Bird In Hand, PA 17505.



One of the first things I do each morning is to check on the number of heavenly blue morning glories that are blooming. I've planted them each year at the base of the crab apple tree in the backyard. They can bring a smile to my face.

Just now my yellow raspberries are giving us a second crop. They are very sweet and the birds and the insects like them too. Allen moved our red raspberries from their spot next to the black ones as he read that they give each other diseases. Now they too have a second crop of big red berries.

This past week has turned my kitchen into a processing plant as Allen bought several bushels of fruit for me to can. And, I also have a lot of tomatoes from my garden. This year my dozen broccoli plants have been bearing very well. After I cut off the central head, many small shoots continue to come out from the plant.

My husband's rose garden seems to have its ups and downs. One time it is full of blooms and a little later I cannot find enough flowers for a bouquet. He has every color of the rainbow except blue.

Lately I've been seeing an Eastern Kingbird on the rail fence around our yard. In fact, I had to look in my bird book in order to give a name to the bird. It darts from its perch after insects in true flycatcher fashion. It is a brown-blue colored bird with white on the tips of the tail. It seems that I don't often find the time to sit and watch our little bluebirds as they feed their young.

Streamlining Meals

Most school children have been back in the classroom for several weeks now — much to some parents' relief. Of course, the school year brings another set of adjustments. Are the kids "packing or buying" today? Who will be home for supper and when? Is there milk in the house? What will we do with all these tomatoes and zucchini? Meal management can be a real challenge for families, and it seems that each fall we have to relearn these important skills.

People judging multiple roles and responsibilities can take some active steps to streamline family meals. This will reduce stress.

When packing lunches, first recognize that most children and adults have the ability to pack their own lunches! We can set up the supplies to make this easier if we wish. But doing everything for another person builds dependence, not independence. I found that buying small containers of yogurt and packs of crackers made it easier for people in my family. If kids know that there's a bag of apples in the refrigerator or already prepared snack mixes on the counter, they are more likely to help themselves. Even cutting vegetables or wedges of cheese in advance makes it easier for everyone to pack lunches for themselves.

Individually packed foods generally cost more money, so there is a trade-off. You need to decide how much energy you are willing to devote to meal planning and food preparation. Even if you will be eating at home, having fresh fruits, vegetables, and breads (like bagels and muffins) on hand will encourage you to eat healthy, quick meals.

Handling lunches is one challenge, handling the evening meal (and all the conflicting food preferences and schedules) is another.

Do you cringe when someone asks, "What's for supper?" Guaranteed, the least effective time to plan supper is when the kids are getting home from school and you're rushing to finish outside chores before dark! Everyone is tired and already hungry. Ideally, some preliminary planning has already been done, if not, grab a snack to tide you and the kids over while you can make some reasonable plans.

In the future, take time during the weekend to plan. Mark on your calendar the evenings that people will be home for supper during the next week. On the nights when you are scattered, allow for sandwiches or leftovers. Then ask the children to suggest a few main dishes for the remaining meals. Of course, when planning, it's important to include a variety of foods. Sometimes variety mean having last night's leftover pizza or spaghetti for breakfast. That's fine. It may also mean having waffles or French toast with fresh fruit for supper.

To intentionally build in menu variety, make chicken the meat source one night, beef another night, and choose eggs or pasta as the main course another night. Ask your family how they would like these foods prepared? Write down a meal schedule. Then round out the menus with two vegetables, a fruit, and some bread, rice, or other starches. While you still have an abundance of fresh produce from your own gardens, use them! Be creative as you select your items. Raisins tossed in a salad provide a fruit in the menu. Pasta topped with steamed squash and tomato sauce is a great vegetable option.

Remember, you can cook in quantities and use the food in multiple ways. For example, boil lots of potatoes. Use some for tonight's meal, more for potato salad or home fries this weekend. Rice can be cooked and refrigerated or frozen for later use. Baking a turkey breast and dividing it into smaller portions gives you a precooked meat for several meals. Simply wrap and freeze the portions you won't use immediately. Then defrost as needed in the microwave for quick meals!

With each of these tasks, remember to involve the children and other adults in your home. Write down the plan (so no one can say, "You didn't tell me!") and post it on the refrigerator or kitchen counter. Then assign tasks. Doing it yourself may seem faster and better in the short run, but in the long run it isn't. It is important that all family members, old and young, learn to share the responsibilities of meal planning and preparation.

Sweeten Up With Honey And Maple Syrup

Honey and maple syrup is good for more than drizzling over pancakes. Add a touch of honey or maple syrup to carrots, sweet potatoes, or squash. Try glazing ham or sweetening baked apples.

"There's nothing like the subtle flavor of pure maple syrup on pancakes, waffles or French toast, but try cooking with maple syrup and you will be pleased with the results," said Pa. Maple Sweetheart Tanya Deets.

Pure maple syrup is slightly sweeter than cane sugar. It contains 62 calories per tablespoon as compared to 54 calories per tablespoon of sugar, but less maple syrup is required.

Substitute ¾ cup maple syrup for each cup sugar and reduce the liquid in the recipe by 3 tablespoons.

Pure maple syrup is sold by grades of color or shades of amber: Light amber is used primarily to make maple cream or candy. Medium amber, with a delicate flavor, is used as the table syrup. Dark amber, is used by people who prefer a stronger flavor for table use.

Unopened containers of maple syrup can be store in a cool, dry place, or frozen. Store opened containers of syrup in the refrigerator. If mold develops on the syrup, skim it off; then heat the syrup to boiling and cook for 3 minutes.

For more information about maple syrup, additional recipes and storage, send a self-addressed, stamped business-size envelope to the Pennsylvania's Maple Syrup Producers' Council, c/o Jim Tice, 427 Tice Rd., Mainesburg, PA 16932.

"Did you know that it takes 556 worker bees flying 35,854 miles to produce one pound of honey?" Pennsylvania Honey Queen Emily Anderson asks.

Honey keeps baked goods moist longer than products made with granulated sugar. To replace sugar with honey: Substitute ⅔ cup honey per cup sugar. Reduce amount of liquid by ¼ cup for each cup honey used. Lower baking temperatures by 25 degrees. In baked goods, add ½ teaspoon baking soda for each cup of honey used.

Store honey at room temperature. Refrigeration speeds up crystallization. If honey has crystallized, remove lid and place jar in warm water until crystals dissolve. Or, microwave 1 cup honey in microwave-safe container on high for 2 to 3 minutes until crystals dissolve; stir every 30 seconds. Do not boil or scorch.

For more information about honey—including additional recipes, storage, and buying tips—send a self-addressed, stamped business size envelope to the National Honey Board, Dept. QB, 390 Lashley St., Longmont, Co. 80501-6045.

Soccer practice. Friday night high school football games. Field hockey matches. The big game on Sunday. Autumn is more than the kids returning to school, it's the start of a variety of sporting events that brings friends and family together after school and on the weekends.

Whether it's pre-game tailgating, pee-wee soccer games or an afternoon of watching the game with friends at home, good times are made even better with delicious food.

"Families often have to grab a quick bite on the run to practice, and once the crowd arrives for the game, spending time in the kitchen preparing a meal or snacks is nearly impossible," says Holly Gerke of the American Dairy Association Mid East. "That's why the great taste, variety and verstaility of cheese always scores points at any sport-watching event."

With just a few basic ingredients, the tailgate party can go from the boring bag of chips and dip to something tantalizing and satisfying. Here are two recipes.

Chunky Cheese Bread

1 package (16 ounce) hot roll mix, plus ingredients to make mix
1/4 cup sun-dried tomatoes (chopped)
1 tablespoon sliced green onion
8 ounces Pepper Jack cheese (cut in 1/2-inch cubes)

Make hot roll mix according to package directions, adding sun-dried tomatoes and green onion; knead cheese into dough. Divide dough in half; shape into 2 round or oval loaves on a greased cookie sheet. Let rise (covered), in warm place until doubled in size, 30-40 minutes. Bake at 375° until golden, about 20 minutes. Makes 2 loaves.

Cheese 'N Ham Biscuits

1 package (10.8 ounces) extra large biscuits, baked
5 ounces thinly sliced ham
5 ounces sliced Colby Jack cheese
1/3 cup strawberry preserves or orange marmalade

Split biscuits; layer ham and cheese on bottom halves. Spread biscuit tops with preserves and place on sandwiches. Bake at 300°F, loosely wrapped in aluminum foil, until hot, about 15 minutes. Makes 5 servings.

QUESTION — Some time ago, Ruth Erb, Beavertown, requested a recipe for the brandy syrup starter for Rometoph Friendship Cake. The answer printed was not the one she needs. She has the following recipe for the cake, but needs the starter recipe.

Rometoph Cake

1½ cups brandy syrup starter
2½ cups sugar
#2½ can sliced peaches without syrup

Stir mixture every day. On the 10th day, add 16-ounce can of chunk pineapple with juice and 2½ cups sugar.

Stir every day. On the 20th day, add 2½ cups sugar and two 8½ -ounce jars maraschino cherries, cut in half, including juice.

Stir every day. On the 30th day, drain off the juice. Combine:

1 box yellow cake mix
3-ounce box instant vanilla pudding
4 eggs
⅔ cup oil
¼ cup water
1½ cups fruit mixture, drained
1 cup chopped nuts (walnuts or pecans)

Grease and flour a Bundt pan.

Bake at 325 degrees for 1 hour and 15 minutes.

General directions:

Use a glass jar only. Do not refrigerate, let jar set out at all times. Cover only with a cloth or paper towel, fastened with a rubber band or string. Do not use a metal lid. Stir with a wooden spoon, do not use metal or plastic.

The starter may be stored in the freezer in a jar indefinately. To start it again, remove from freezer and let set 2 to 3 days before adding the fruit.

This recipe makes enough for two cakes and starter to share with friends.

ANSWER — Vivian Kunkle, Oley, wanted instructions on making homemade soap. Thaks to Audrey Storm, Barto, who sent her mother-in-law's recipe.

Homemade Soap

5½ pounds grease
3½ pints water
1 can lye
1 cup Borax
½ cup ammonia

Melt grease, mix lye with water and let cool. Strain grease into lye and mix. Add Borax and ammonia and mix until grease is dissolved, about 45 minutes. Spread in pans.

ANSWER — Sadie Mast, Richfield, wanted to know how to make whistles from elderberry branches. Thanks to Elam Martin for sending instructions.

To make a whistle from an elderberry branch, take a straight elderberry branch without knots about 3/8-inch or more in diameter and cut it off about 4 or 4½ -inches long. Scrape the bark off with a knife, then hollow out the soft center (about ¾ of the length) with a heavy wire or something. Make it smooth. At the hollow end, about ½ inch from the end, cut a small notch, making only a rather small hole into the top side.

Then whittle a wooden plug, about 3/8-inch long, that fits snug inside the hollow branch and push that plug into the hollow branch about three inches.

Then whittle another wooden plug about ¼ -inch long to fit snug inside the hollowed branch and make it flat on one side, taking off about ¼ diameter. Put this plug into the open end, make flush outside, putting the flat side on top in line with the notch. With your lower lip against the end and your upper lip on the top side, blow lightly. Adjust the notch on top or the opening at end to make it whistle.

The rescue team works to free a victim from under the tractor wheel.

Grant Allows Farm Safety Demonstration

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

LAMPETER (Lancater Co.) — The visual example had an impact on the Lampeter-Strasburg FFA students gathered around the overturned tractor beside their school's tennis courts. The sober expresson on the young faces demonstrated knowledge that they could have been the one in this farm accident.

Two dummies dressed in coveralls were lying on the ground. One representing the driver was pinned under the tractor and presumed dead. The other represented the person who had been riding on the tractor beside the driver. This figure was critically injured on the ground nearby.

As the students watched, the local Lampeter and Refton fire engines and their rescue units converged on the scene and began work on the victims. After the tractor was stabilized, air bags were placed on cribbing blocks and inflated to raise the tractor off the pinned driver. These bags have just recently been added to the Lampeter Fire Company's rescue equipment and were being publically demonstrated for the first. The two bags on hand are capable of raising 37 tons and plans are to add enough inflation power to move 100 tons.

"This is a good example of why you should not cowboy with a tractor," said Lloyd E. Henry, Lampeter fire chief. "Most tractor accidents happen without attached implements. Farming has now surpassed mining as the second most hazardous occupation behind fire fighting. I hope no one here ever gets pinned under a tractor," he said.

Henry is a certified state instructor for farm rescue units and has helped write the manuals for training fire and rescue personnel about how to proceed when faced with a farm accident.

"When an accident occurs on the farm, everyone wants to be doing something," Henry said. "Everyone who works around machinery should know CPR and the difference between cardiac arrest and respiratory arrest.

"The first thing to do is to shut off the ignition and the PTO. And be sure to call the rescue unit. They can't help you if they don't know about your accident."

The demonstration was part of the FFA Chapter's work as a result of receiving a $2,500 grant from the Agriculture and Rural Youth Grant Program from the Pennsylvania Department Of Agriculture. With the money made available at the beginning of this school year, the chapter has purchased video equipment and cameras to record the rescue activities so they can take the message of safety to all grades K-12 in their school district. This effort will give the FFA youths the opportunity to relay ag information to other students who have no farm background.

In addition, the overturned tractor demonstration is scheduled to be erected in the machinery tent at the Lampeter Fair. Agriculture instructor Steve Smith said they expect to expose 10,000 people to the demonstration during the Fair next week.

Under the grant program, youth organizations can apply for direct grants up to $2,500 to fund educational projects, programs and seminars. This year 21 youth organizations were selected to receive a total of $48,310.

The recipients were chosen for the impact they would have on the greatest number of other youth while utilizing existing or volunteer resources.

Powerful air bags are placed under the tractor to raise the load off the victim of a farm accident.

Novice Shows Champion Market Lamb At Denver

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

DENVER (Lancaster Co.) — In her first year of showing, 9-year-old Joellyn Donough showed a heavyweight champion that captured the title of grand champion market lamb of the Denver Fair.

Clutching the trophy, the breathless champion told how her homebred lamb nicknamed, B.J. for Black Jack, came to be hers. With two older brothers who have been long-time competitors in sheep show circles, Joellyn said, "My parents (Ed and LaRue Donough) really wanted me to have the 'goodest' lamb."

The lambs are divided among the siblings according to whomever the ewe belongs. "If my ewe has a baby then its mine," Joellyn said.

B.J. was the offspring of her ewe Jasmine, which Joellyn said wasn't that good.

Giving Joellyn pressure in the show ring was another first-year competitor Becki Day. Becki purchased her market lamb from B&B in Ohio. Her secret for success, she said, "You've got to start with something decent. You can feed it and exercise it all you want, but if it isn't good to start with, it won't get you anywhere."

Becki exercised her lamb by running it up and down ramps on her parents Cliff and Anna Day's farm. The 15-year-old is a 10th grader at Garden Spot High School and a member of Grassland FFA, of which her father Cliff Day is an adviser.

In a repeat of last year's Denver Sheep Show, Kelly Glaser was champion showman and Nicole Knepp the reserve champion showman.

It was a night to remember for Kelly, who took not only top honors in showmanship but also swept top titles in breeding sheep competition.

Showing the champion Corriedale ram and ewe, Kelly led them into the ring to compete against champions in Cheviot, Columbia, Dorset, Hampshire, Jacobs, Romney, Shropshire, Southdown, and Suffolk breeds.

Unlike many sheep shows, the Denver show selects a champion ewe and ram in each breed rather than only one champion from each breed, because it is unfair to compare a ram against a ewe since they each have different characteristics.

Judge Scott Wright, assistant herdsman at Delaware Valley College, selected Kelly's Corriedales. Madonna, the champion ewe, is a homebred from Kelly's and her grandmother Ruth Hartman's flock in Limekiln. The ram T-Bone was purchased in Ohio and has accumulated numerous wins in different states for Kelly.

The reserve champion ewe over all breeds was a Suffolk shown by Keith Bollinger for his older brother Jerry, who was unable to stay for the whole show. Although Jerry is married, he continues to raise sheep on his parents' farm in Ephrata. Among Jerry, his twin Jeff who is in college, and brother Keith, they have 22 head.

The reserve champion ram over all breeds was the champion Shropshire shown by Travis Redmond of Mohnton. The 12-year-old Travis said, "I knew he was a good ram, but I didn't know he was that good."

The long-bodied Braxton Shropshire sired a lamb that also took champion ewe in the breed division. Travis and his brother 14-year-old brother Derek have a flock of 18, which includes Romneys and Hampshires in addition to Shropshires. Travis said he feeds and his brother waters the sheep.

The sons of Jean and Henry Redmond attend Twin Valley High School.

The Denver Sheep Show held last week included 117 entries from 26 showmen. Here is a partial listing of results.

Male Takes State Honors For Tuxedo He Sewed

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

PALMYRA (Lebanon Co.) — You've heard of girls sewing gowns to wear to the prom. But few boys have the distinction of sewing their own tuxedo to wear to the prom or of capturing a state award for sewing and modeling.

Eighteen-year-old Lee Brandt is not the stereotypical 4-H member of Fashion Revue. This year, he was the only male among 54 females competing at the state level of Fashion Revue, where members are judged on sewing and modeling skills.

Incidents like that have enticed Brandt to perfect his sewing skills.

"Where else can go and have such a ratio?" Brandt joked about his opportunity to be the center of attention among so many girls.

When modeling his tuxedo for competition, he had a girl on each arm.

Brandt's interest in sewing was sparked when he was growing up and watching his mom teach 4-H sewing club. His two older sisters advanced beyond county to regional and state levels, and Brandt observed the accomplishment they derived.

When he was eight years old, the required age for 4-H membership, Brandt asked his mom if he could sew a pillow for a project.

His mother concurred that her son's sewing interest would be short lived.

Instead, Brandt derived a lot of satisfaction from "beating the girls," in competition.

It was that attitude of "I can sew better than you," that caused him to persevere through those preteen years when he detested girls.

When he turned 13, a strange thing happened.

Brandt began to relish all the attention the girls lavished on him at competition.

"It definitely made me more outgoing," he said.

His involvement was not without a price to pay.

"I won a ripping contest," Brandt said. He considers all the experience he gained from ripping to make it exactly right as helping him when a ripping contest was held among members at regional competition.

His mother said that her son actually showed more patience and endurance when sewing than her daughters exhibited.

His mother's oversight paid off. After Brandt was old enough, he advanced to state competition every year but one.

Brandt attributes that partially to his mother who always required him to make a practice outfit to make sure the fitting was exact. Since outfits are also judged upon proper fit, Brandt's projects passed with topped grades.

"I could always ask my mom if I had a question," Brandt said.

"But I never did any of his sewing for him. I figured he must be judged for what he did," she said.

"Now his sewing skills supercede mine," she said with evident pride.

She has paid to have him take lessons to learn to make tailored suits under the auspices of Lebanon seamtress Fran Horst.

Even with that background, the tuxedo was a difficult project.

Brandt used a Burda pattern, which is multi-sized and has no seam allowances. He selected wool for the tuxedo with satin trim. The cotton shirt is set off with a brocade vest, which Brandt patterned off a similar one that he admired in a men's clothing store.

When it comes to sewing, Brandt admits that he is a procrastinator.

"But when I know that I need to finish it for competition, I discipline myself," he said.

He is known to have sewed a men's suit within a week.

"The hardest part is getting a pattern that fits right," he said of the need to adjust patterns to fit his six-foot frame.

Brandt categorizes his 4-H sewing years as fun times. Regarding his state competition involvement, "I never went into it to win but to have fun. I didn't always take top place."

When Brandt wore his tuxedo to the prom, he said that he was the center of attention because word spread fast that he had made it.

While some guys harassed him a bit, Brandt takes it goodnaturedly. "Most are impressed. And I've definitely saved money," he said.

Over the years, Brandt has entered his sewing projects in local fairs and in the state Farm Show competition.

"After collecting the premium money I won, most of my projects were paid for," he said.

According to his mother, another plus for having a son sew is that she hasn't needed to do any of his mending.

At Palmyra High School from which he was graduated with highest honors this year, Brandt participated in cross country, tract, band, and the National Honor Society.

He was one of three delegates selected to attend National 4-H Conference held in Washington D.C. this year.

He is also active in the Chiques Church of the Brethren youth group.

Brandt is attending Harrisburg Area Community College with a major in computer information systems.

"I'll probably keep sewing small projects such as shorts and shirts," Brandt said. "I may even help out as a 4-H sewing leader."

Although his mother, who has taught 4-H sewing for 17 years, intended to quit after her children were through the program, she said that now it's difficult to give it up. "I met a lot of nice people throughout the years," she said.

She plans to continue teaching for at least another year.

Brandt is the son of Darlene and Larry Brandt. Although their address is Manheim, they live in the Lebanon County school district, and for that reason Brandt was active in Lebanon County 4-H.

Lee Brandt models the tuxedo he made for his 4-H Fashion Revue project. After winning at the county and regional levels, Brandt advanced to state competition where he was the only male among 54 females. Again, his tuxedo was selected as a top winner.

On Being a Farm Wife (and other hazards)

Joyce Bupp

He walks to the calf barn, something hidden inside the curl of his battered and grease-stained hand.

"Look here," says The Farmer, dumping the mystery gift into my outstretched palm.

Three fat pods of soybeans. Turning yellow.

Inside each of the short, stubby pods are three, small, cream-colored, classic-bean-shaped seeds. The beans are still fairly soft and not yet ready for harvest. But they at least appear to be reaching maturity.

Finally.

It will still be several weeks until the soybeans are ready for harvest. Not until the leaves turn yellow, then brown, and then quietly fall to the ground. Not until the bare stems are dead brown and hard. Not until the tiny beans have shrunk and hardened to resemble small, beige-colored, ball-bearings. Then - and only then - will the soybeans be ready for the combine to sweep through the remains of ragged stems and strip the beans from the dried pods.

For the past several weeks, one of us has periodically pased at a bean field as we pass to snap a pod to check the crop's development. For weeks, the fields have remained a lush green, even when we knew they should begin to show the fading into yellow of maturity.

Soybeans, like corn, need certain amounts of sunshine and heat - degree days, I think is the terminology - to mature and ripen. But the cloudiness, humidity, and frequent rains this season here in southcentral Pennsylvania have been akin to living in the understory of the Amazon rain forest, except for the summer's unsual coolness. And stuff has just ripened slowly.

Still, we have been more favorably blessed than many areas of the country, either burning up from no rain and 110-degree heat or endless downpours that halted corn and bean planting and hay harvest until well into summer.

And, now Mother Nature has that weary look that says she's almost finished here work. Most of the perennials are past blooming and dying stalks protrude from clusters of leaves busy storing nutrients for another year. Weeds ripen intersting-looking pods of seeds, including all those "sticker" sorts that cling to socks, hitch rides on the dog's tail and make a mess of the laundry if you miss picking them off the tail of a flannel shirt.

Goldenrod waves from the roadsides, delighting those of us who gather it for bouquets but adding misery to others already suffering from the proliferance of ragweed pollen. And, in a few spots, hints of coloring leaves are already tinting fencerows and woodlots.

Our tomato abundance has slowed to just enough of a trickle to keep us in plenty of salads and sandwiches. (The groundhogs haven't helped.) One last home-grown cantaloupe is hidden in the refrigerator. Squash bugs have claimed the final zucchini and cucumbers and string beans faded into history weeks ago. Plans to plant "late stuff" in the garden were a washout-literally.

As the cleandar officially flips into Fall this week, corn silage harvest takes center stage. Our supply of last season's corn - both silage and grain - has run dry and we and search out early-maturing stands to help balance the dairy herd's dinner demands.

And each passing day of warmth, maturing crops and dwindling seasonal fresh things becomes more precious with the chilling deadlien that inevitably looms ahead.

Simmental Association Broadens Information Package

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. — The American Simmental Association (ASA) recently began using a new tool to promote and market Simmental cattle for its more than 9,500 members.

Now, in addition to providing breed information in advertising and other print and broadcast communications, the association is on the information superhighway.

The ASA is among 10 national dairy and beef breed associations that regularly post breed information on the Cattle Offerings Worldwide (COW) web site. COW is a computer database and web site, with offices in Chapel Hill, N.C., and Purchase, N.Y. The ASA has its own home page address at http://www.simmgene.com.

"The Internet is a good way of promoting and marketing cattle. It provides breeders another avenue to advertise their programs," said Bruce Cunningham, ASA director of research and education. Cunningham noted that while the Internet is still a relatively new concept in the cattle business, more people are getting access to it. He said that people with Internet access will find it easy to browse the web. If someone is scanning for cows on the Internet, that person will find the COW site and several sources of additional information, including the ASA.

"However, one does not need a computer to benefit from COW," said Ben Zaitz, the third-generation family cattleman who developed the service. He likens COW to the multiple listing service (MLS) the real estate industry uses to help buyers narrow their search. It searches for matches between prospective buyers and sellers of both beef and dairy cattle and genetics. The web site posts information from breed associations, as well as from several private breeders, embryo, and semen companies.

When a seller posts cattle, semen, or embryos for sale on the datebase, interested buyers (or matches) are sent an e-mail, fax or U.S. mail notice. Similarly, buyers can use e-mail, fax, or mail inquiries to find cattle and genetics that meet their needs. Buyers and sellers are quickly matched by completing a buyer or seller form. The standard form asks them to specify farm name and address, breed, type of cattle or genetics (spring heifer, calves, semen, etc.), and so on.

Zaitz has set up COW to facilitate information exchange in two ways: COW Data Sites (CDS) and Searchable Classified Ads (SCA). The breeder or association that posts information on the CDS can control and update listings of animals, embryo or semen (either for sale or wanted to buy). What's more, COW provides links from the CDS listing to the association's or breeder's home page (for example, the American Simmental Association). This home page may either be located on COW, or elsewhere at the COW member's choosing.

SCAs, which are searchable online "Wanted" or "For Sale" ads, not only appear on the COW web site (www.cattleofferings.com), but are automatically compared with all new CDS listings. All matches are notified (vis e-mail, fax or mail) during the time the SCA remains on the COW Internet database. COW currently offers the SCAs on a one-month free trial basis. The CDSs are offered on a two-month free trial.

For more information on Cattle Offerings Worldwide, Inc. (COW) or how to set up your own CDS, or to request an SCA buy or sell listing form, contact Benjamin J. Zaitz, Cattle Offerings Worldwide, Inc., P.O. Box 2408, Chapel Hill, NC 27515, (914) 253-9050 or toll-free at (888) 929-5444. E-mail address is buyorsell@cattleofferings.com. Or, visit the COW web site at www.cattleofferings.com.

Largest Ever Junior Livestock Sale At G-D-S

NEWFOUNDLAND (Wayne Co.) — At 1 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 31, here at the Greene-Dreher-Sterlling Fairgrounds, local youth successfully offered 100 market animals for sale at the Southern Wayne Junior Livestock Sale.

Area banks, businesses, parents, and friends purchased market hogs, steers, and lambs for a total sale figure of $35,635.40.

The sale's volume buyer in both dollars and number of animals was John Petroski, livestock dealer of Pleasant Mount. Auctioneer Wayne Weaver, Tunkhannock, volunteered his services to the sale for the benefit of youth, and spoke with familiarity about many of the sellers and their projects.

The first animal presented for auction was the 225-pound grand champion market hog, a Yorkshire crossbred, raised by Grace Howell of Waymart, a member of the Pleasant Mount Go-Getters 4-H Club. This animal was purchased by Wayne Bank for $4.50 per pound.

The reserve grand champion hog, a homebred Hampshire crossbred, was raised by Andrew Nebzydoski, a fifth grade member of the Pleasant Mount Go-Getters 4-H Club. Waymart Milling purchased this animal for $2 a pound.

Mike Korb took both grand and reserve grand champion honors at this year's market lamb competition. He sold his grand champion lamb to John Petroski for $4 per pound, and his reserve grand champion lamb to Marshall Machinery for $2.60 per pound.

Tim Olver's grand champion market steer was a black Angus that was bought by Steep Hill Dairy (Weist Family) for $1.55 a pound. Tim is a Penn State University freshman from Honesdale.

Nick Nebzydoski's reserve grand champion 1995 calf scramble steer was purchased for $1 a pound by Waymart Milling Co. Nick is a ninth grade member of the Pleaesant Mount Go-Getters 4-H Club.

Five animals were returned for resale to benefit Andy and Donna Weist's 10-month-old grandson who is receiving medical treatment, and for the G-D-S Fair Youth Program. Animals were returned for resale to benefit the baby by Tubby's Concessions, Community Bank and Trust, Bill Lopatofsky, John Shipsky, and Tom Randt. Community Bank and Trust also returned one market hog for resale to benefit G-D-S youth.

Harvestore Passes Automation Business To Recknell

DEKALB, Ill. — Early this year, Harvestore Products announced its intention to phase out the sales and manufacturing of its automation product line.

During this phase-out period, Harvestore Products sought a buyer for this segment of the business. On September 3, 1996, an asset purchase agreement was finalized between A.O. Smith Harvestore Products, Inc. and Recknell Industries Ltd. of Saskatchewan, Canada, which plans to assume full production and distribution of automated products.

Rick Jones, general sales manager for agricultural products at Harvestore Products, anticipates an orderly transition of inventory, machine tools, intellectual property, and all other key elements of with the transfer of hard assets," Jones said, "but also with the transfer of knowledge and 'know-how' that A.O. Smith Harvestore Products has gained in engineering, manufacturing, and marketing."

Recknell Industries, a custom steel manufacturer located in Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, is a "customer-driven company," said Recknell President Sandy Frischholz. Frischholz, assisted by Vice President Jud Recknell and Secretary-Treasurer Peter Federko; promises to maintain the high level of quality Harvestore Products customers have come to expect from their equipment and service parts. Current products which will remain on the market under Recknells' proprietorship include conveyors, batch mixers, feeders, and roller mills and their accessories.

Recknell Industries plans to continue selling the automation products exclusively through the existing authorized Harvestore Products agricultural dealer organization.

CFS Introduces New Dent Corn

MOMENCE, Ill. — Custom Farm Seed (CFS) is expanding its dent corn lineup. It is introducing three new hybrids for the 1997 growing year.

The new hybrids reveal the research and development benefits of the numerous CFS Custom Selection System (CSS) plots located across the Corn Belt. The 2½ -acre plots use new advanced technology, offer side-by-side comparisons of up to 60 hybrids in replication grown under grower environments, and require minimal planting and harvesting time.

The combined results of CSS plots and CFS research enable CFS sales staff to carefully match specific growing conditions and needs with the best hybrids available.

"The newly released hybrids passed the test for top agronomic traits and top yields in both 1994 and 1995," said Gary Apel, agronomist, Custom Farm Seed. "They were top performers under both good growing conditions and stressful conditions."

CFS 4325, 99-103 RM/105 MN, performs best under good management. It offers an excellent yield to moisture ratio, great standability and an attractive fall appearance.

CFS 6225, 108-112 RM/110 MN, is an excellent choice for no-till corn. Widely adapted from east to west in the Corn Belt, it has outstanding yield potential, very good stay green ability, and can perform consistently in both good and stressful years.

Farmers Have Opportunity To Win New Equipment

ATHENS, Tenn. — Do you still own the same Taylor-Way Tiller you purchased from the local farm equipment dealer in 1960? How about the Pittsburgh mower you bought just 15 years ago?

Chances are, if you're stil using any Taylor-Way/Pittsburgh implement that is more than 10 years old, you could be the winner of the search for the oldest functioning Taylor-Way/Pittsburgh implement in this country. And that means you could win a Taylor/Pittsburgh Series 27 Rotary Mower valued at $1,400.

"In honor of our 50th Anniversary, we're beginning a search for our oldest product still in use today," said Al Preslicka, general manager. "But we're not just searching for one winner. Of course, not everyone who enters will win the grand prize, but each and every person who responds to this search by February 28, 1997 will receive a prize as our way of saying thanks."

To enter the 50th Anniversary Search, send a photo of you and your Taylor-Way/Pittsburgh product, along with a short summary of when and where the product was purchased, what acreage the implement services and any additional comments about the quality of dependability of the product to Taylor/Pittsburgh Search, 7 Rocky Mount Rd., Athens, TN 37371-0769, or visit your local Taylor/Pittsburgh dealer for complete details and an entry form.

Farm Credit To Sponsor 4-H Conference

LEWISBURG (Union Co.) — The Pennsylvania Farm Credit System announced its sponsorship of the 1996 National 4-H Conference held at the Penn State University Cooperative Extension.

Each year, cooperative extension brings together a group of approximately 300 young people, volunteer leaders, and extension staff to discuss issues and concerns of young people. They work hard and spend many hours in working groups establishing a focus for the conference. They use discussions, compromises, negotiations, leadership, and teamwork to find potential solutions to the problems facing our country's youth population.

During the 1996 National 4-H Conference, 14 working groups provided plenty of discussion about the future of young people and the 4-H program. They prepared reports highlighting various teen focused concerns, goals, and action plans for each group. Throughout the reports, three areas of interest became the major points of contention among conference attendees. The three areas included public support of the 4-H program, communication throughout all levels of the extension system, and development of relationships with public officials in order to increase awareness of the 4-H program.

This year, the Penn State 4-H program was represented by three teen 4-H delegates accompanied by Dr. U.B. Bakker, faculty adviser to the National 4-H Conference. The delegates included Jacklyn Parry of Newtown, Bucks County; Lee Brandt of Manheim, Lancaster County and Monica Doddato of Sharpsville, Mercer County.

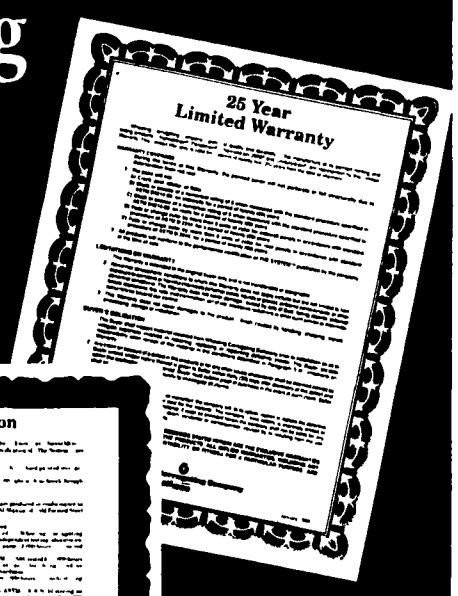
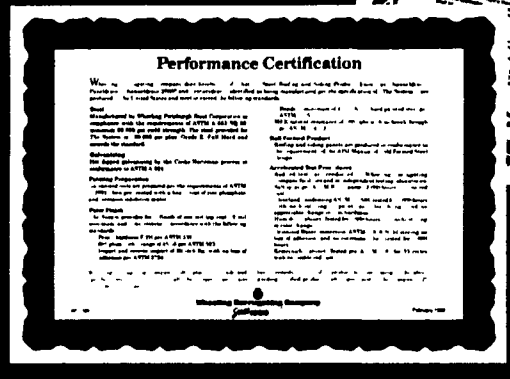
WE DELIVER

Wheeling Puts It In Writing.





Twice.

At Wheeling, we're so confident of the rust/corrosion fighting properties of our steel roofing and siding that we've put it in writing. Many manufacturers tout the durability of their top coat and say little about what's under the finish. A great top coat is meaningless if the steel substrate begins to fail in a few short years.

That's why Wheeling developed The System™, the most comprehensive quality integrated manufacturing and paint finishing process in the industry. The System's six step rust/corrosion fighting program is a series of coatings, treatments and manufacturing procedures built around a methodology that deals with fighting rust and corrosion from raw steel to finish coat. The System gets it right, right from the start.

We've Spelled It Out, In Black And White.

Every panel of Wheeling roofing and siding is backed in writing. Twice. First with a 25-year limited warranty. Then with a performance certification that guarantees the standards and composition of our products, from raw steel to topcoat.

For full information on roofing and siding that fights rust and corrosion from start to finish,

You Rise Up Early When You Live On A Farm.
The Chores are all waiting as you enter the barn.
Soon you will leave and go into the house, your breakfast is waiting, made by your spouse.
Now before you go out, I have something to say.
I was cleaning upstairs, the other day. Some won't go up, others just fall down, you can feel the cold air blowing all around. Look at these windows, how easy to clean, a house full of these would fulfill my dream. Why don't we call them, they look so nice there is no charge for giving a price.

DAIRY FARM EQUIPMENT

Scroll-Compressor Technology
New in 1994

You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment... but it can cost you more!

Equipment cost is not the only cost of cooling milk.

In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller® milk-cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-brand" milk-cooling equipment.

Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$31,000	$28,000
Cost of electricity @ .08 kW for 12,000 lbs milk/day for 10 years	$17,550	$22,850
Total operating cost for ten years	$48,550	$50,850
Savings	$ 2,300

BROWNSVILLE (Fayette Co.) — When was the last time an aeromedical helicopter landed on your farm?

On July 20, Life Flight 5, a BK 117 German-made aeromedical helicopter equipped with rear entry and two twin jet engines, landed right in the middle of Low Hill Farms, owned by Drs. Joe and Wanda Young, Brownsville.

The helicopter arrived just in time for the annual Pennsylvania Simmental Association-Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association Field Day.

The Life Flight helicopters have been in operation since 1975. Life Flight 5, which landed at Low Hill Farms, flies out of Rostraver Airport and covers a 130-mile radius.

Having the medical helicopter on hand underlined the theme of farm safety at the field day. A tractor safety demonstration by Dr. Joe Young showed that many tractor accidents can be prevented.

Other events throughout the day included a lecture on hay bale wrapping by Dr. Lowell Wilson. Also, a lecture on fencemaking materials was provided by Tom Calvert.

Young provided a lecture on embryo sexing and the use of the sonogram. According to Young, one of the most important uses for the sonogram is to evaluate the condition of the reproductive tract of the recipient heifer or cow. By ensuring a healthy recipient cow, odds of having an embryo pregnancy are increased.

Part of the field day was the Junior Simmental Show. Champion show heifer was exhibited by Raymond Stough, who also was honored with champion steer. Jessica Deets won champion showman.

HIGH GRAIN PRICES CREATE MANURE MARKETING OPPORTUNITIES

Leon Ressler
Extension Agent
Agriculture/Environment

The high grain prices of the last year will probably be with us for the foreseeable future.

These high prices have been a burden to the poultry industry in the form of high feed prices.

However, as always, there is another side to this coin. High grain prices have put cash grain farmers in a better financial position than they have been in for a while. This helps create strong demand for crop nutrients to grow next year's crop.

This is an opportunity for the poultry industry to market poultry manure to meet this demand. Now is a good time to review business practices which will improve your ability to capitalize on this market opportunity.

Following these good marketing principles, useful in marketing any product, will help you successfully market your manure. First, promote your product. Advertise! Include in your advertisements the nutrient value of your product. It is also important to understand your competition and be honest about your product's advantages and disadvantages.

Manure's primary advantage is low cost relative to fertilizer as a source of crop nutrients. Another advantage is that some of the nitrogen in manure will be available slowly over time. Manure also supplies micronutrients to the crops and organic matter to the soil.

Offering manure test information to potential buyers is very important. Offering custom application service will open new opportunities and give you equal footing in an area which was in the past a main advantage of your competition.

Large cash grain farmers often would rather pay some one else for the spreading service so they can concentrate on their other tasks. If your equipment enables you to uniformly apply the manure in a timely manner, your marketing opportunities will increase significantly.

You need to honestly face your disadvantages as well. These include hauling cost, inability to custom match a particular nutrient ratio required by a field, and compaction from heavy application equipment.

Applying poultry manure in the fall has several advantages. The soil is often drier than in the spring when compaction could become more of a problem. By applying the manure in the fall the spring work load can be lightened.

Once the weather has cooled the risk of a fly outbreak where the manure has been spread is reduced significantly. However, fall application means that the manure will be on the field several months before the spring corn is planted. Therefore these valuable crop nutrients are at risk of being lost to the environment because of soil erosion and leaching.

Winter cover crops are a valuable tool farmers can use to prevent this economic loss of valuable nutrients and prevent the environmental damage also caused. If you are applying manure to your cropland this fall, plan on planting a small grain cover crop such as rye.

LEADERSHIP AT WORK®

MONITORED BY THE PA DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

If you are marketing your manure to others, encourage them to adopt this practice to realize maximum benefit from the manure. The rye will take up the available nitrogen and hold it in the plant, preventing its loss to the water supply. If the rye is harvested, the nutrients will be utilized as high quality feed.

If the rye is killed or plowed in the spring, the nutrients will become available to the following crop. The rye will also prevent nutrient loss by slowing soil erosion. Rye can be planted as late as November but the earlier it is planted the more nutrients it will take up and the more yield it will produce in the spring.

In order to assist suppliers and receivers to redistribute manure in southeastern Pennsylvania, I have been putting together lists of each group. Each year I update the list and send a list of suppliers to the potential receivers and vice versa. The lists are organized by county and township to enable to find those on the matching list nearest to you.

If you are interested in participating, contact me at Penn State Cooperative Extension, 1383 Arcadia Road, Room 1, Lancaster PA 17601-3184, (717) 394-6851.

Hughes Wins Communications Award

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Chester D. Hughes, extension livestock agent, Lancaster, participated in the National Association of County Agricultural Agents (NACAA) Annual Meeting and Professional Improvement Conference in Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 1-5.

Hughes was one of more than 1,800 cooperative extension service agricultural agents who attended the week-long activities at the world-famous Opryland Hotel.

The meeting theme, "Volunteers for New Horizons in Agriculture," reflects the national emphasis of recognizing the volunteer spirit as we look to the future of agricultural programs.

"NACAA delegates meet each year to consider business for the organization and to provide training for agents to help them conduct better educational programs," said Jamie Jenkins, National NACAA president. "We provide our members professional training and support." Agents honor their peers and give special recognition to selected agents who have received distinguished milestones in their careers.

Chester Hughes was recognized as a third place national winner in the AT&T sponsored "Excellence in Communication Awards" for his feature story photo entry. Hughes was also honored as Pennsylvania state winner in the Livestock Production Program for his work with the National Beef Quality Assurance Program.

"Some of the program highlights were educational presentations by peers, exhibits and displays to promote educational programs, discussions on current issues facing farming and agribusiness, leadership development seminars, professional speakers and much more," Jenkins said.

More than 30 tours to take delegates to agricultural points of interest were available. Exhibitors also provided sessions on innovative products and services of value to professional agricultural workers and their clients.

Sharing their insights during the meeting were nationally and regionally recognized speakers including Carl Loop, Jr., vice president, American Farm Bureau Federation; John Winfield, president, American Farm Broadcasters Association; B.R. Robinson, CSREES administrator, USDA; Joseph E. Johnson, University of Tennessee president; and Tennessee Lieutenant Governor John Wilder.

Antique Days Set

ICKESBURG (Perry Co.) — The Ickesburg Fire Company and the Perry County Old Iron Club present the 4th Annual Antique Days, Friday, Oct. 4 - Sunday, Oct. 6 at the carnival grounds located behind the firehouse in Ickesburg.

The event will begin Friday at noon with tractor registration. The feature tractor for this year's show will be Massey Harris. At 3 p.m. the food stands will open. The big event for the evening will be a pedal tractor pull competition at 6 p.m. This competition is open to anyone between the ages of 3 and 103 and is bound to be a fun event to come out and participate in.

Saturday kicks off with an all-you-can-eat breakfast served in the firehouse from 6 a.m. to 9 a.m. At 9 a.m. the flea market, craft area, and all displays of working equipment will open. The working displays consist of antique tractors and automobiles, hit and miss engines, blacksmithing, broom making, threshing of grain, baling straw, sawmill, and hammermill.

The Fall Harvest Parade will step off at 1 p.m. and will feature marching units, floats, antique automobiles, and antique farm machinery. Another pedal tractor pull competition is scheduled to be held at 3 p.m. If you're not interested in the pedal pulls, you can enjoy a BBQ chicken dinner which will also be available at 3 p.m.

Chick Knisley and his band take to the bandstand from 5 to 8 p.m. After the band is finished, the sky will be filled with a fabulous fireworks display at 8 p.m. This fireworks display has been referred to as the best in Perry County and should not be missed.

Sunday, once again, begins with an all-you-can-eat breakfast served in the firehouse from 6 to 8:30 a.m. The breakfast will be followed by a community worship service, which will begin at 8:30 a.m., in the firehouse.

On Sunday at 9:30 a.m. the flea market and craft area along with the display of working equipment will open. At 10 a.m. tractor games for those exhibiting tractors will be held near the Lyons Club baseball field.

A pig roast will be the main attraction for the lunch crowd. The roast will be served starting at noon. Your last chance to compete in the pedal tractor pull competition will be at 1 p.m. If you like horse pulling competitions we have one of those also. The horse pulls will begin at 2 p.m. and will wrap up the events for the 1996 show.

There is no charge for parking and there is no fee for admission.

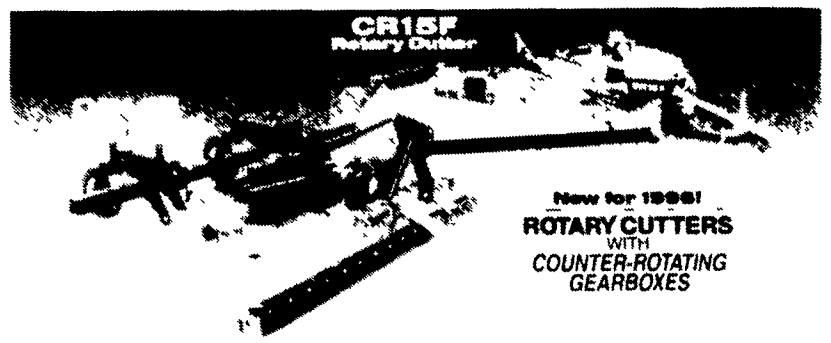
ROTARY CUTTERS



For shredding cotton, milo, corn, wheat stubble and other crops, the CR14R (counter-rotating, 14-foot rigid cutter) and the CR15F (counter-rotating, 15-foot flexwing) are revolutionary cutters in both design and performance.

The gearbox design features twin shaft operating in opposite directions The lower blade lifts and cuts the material, and the upward air flow lifts the cut material into the path of the counter-rotating flat blades. These blades continue the shredding process...resulting in near flail performance for shredded material. And good distribution, important in minimum and no-till farming, is also a benefit.

Many At Second Southeast Youth District Dairy Show

SUMMIT STATION (Schuylkill Co.) — The recent Southeast Pennsylvania Youth District Dairy Show, held at the Schuylkill County Fairgrounds in Summit Station saw a tremendous number of exhibitors show up to qualify for the youth state dairy shows, scheduled to be held Sept.23 at the state Farm Show Complex in conjunction with the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show.

An estimated 400 animals were at the show facility, and some animals had to be held overnight in trailers, according to exhibitors.

The heavy turnout was assumed to be because of early arrivals for the following day's Southeast Pennsylvania Championship Holstein Show, and because some of the youth were set to exhibit both days.

For the first time this year, instead of having separate FFA and 4-H qualifying district shows, the system was changed so that any youth in either organization could participate in any district show to qualify for the state show.

The result has been that in most districts there are two qualifying shows, held about a month or so apart.

This was done to make show attendance easier for youth, who might have jobs, other pursuits or schooling that could conflict with attendance, and also to help with family scheduling, especially if parents are also active in the show circuit.

The first Southeast District Youth Dairy Show was help in July in Lebanon County.

While some exhibitors expressed concern about the high turnout, it is assumed that as exhibitors attend the different shows and get used to their new freedom of choice in participating in a youth qualifying show, that attendance can be expected to even out.

It is the desire of state organizers that show attendance be as little an inconvenience and that more people will be able to participate in showing cattle.

Type judges for the most recent southeast Pennsylvania district youth dairy show were Paul Knight of Airville, and Steve Neely of Tunkhannock.

Showmanship and fitting judges were Nancy Toms of Mifflintown, and Richard Packard, of Troy.

Holstein

In the Holstein breed, Sara Hlavaty, of Easton, showed the senior and grand champion, a junior 3-year-old, Keystone Highlight Lake.

The reserve senior and grand champion was 4-year-old Den-Al Berth Candy, owned by Amy Rex, of Andreas. Though it stood alone in its class, it was judged to have the best udder.

The junior champion animal was a winter calf, Great-View CC Jingle Belle, shown by Holly Miller of Harrisburg.

The reserve junior champion was a winter calf, D-S-Pine-Lawn Marksman Vinny, owned by Brent Schuler of Fleetwood.

For Snook, Standability's Most Important Factor

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Bradford Co. Correspondent

JERSEY SHORE (Lycoming Co.) — Some people say it's the rich river bottom soils that allow Ed Snook to take home the first-place ribbons in the Pennsylvania Corn Club's annual production contest. But according to the long-time corn grower and hog farmer, there are many factors that contribute to bumper corn crops.

"In the Five Acre Corn Club, I don't enter the same fields every year I've had them in the Nippenose Valley on limestone ground and along the river. It's always pushed up to me that I have pig manure and river field, but we've had the Five Year Corn Club in seven or eight locations and we've won awards on all of them," he said.

In this year's contest, Snook placed first in the three-year average shelled grain class for the regular harvest size. His yield in 1992 was 191.8 bushels per acre. In 1993 he produced 201 6 bushels per acre and in 1994 he produced 194.1 bushels per acre for an average

Corn A Year-Round Business At Wolf Farms

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

STEWARTSTOWN (York Co.)—Piles of icy snow still linger along the edges of the rolling fields at Wolf Farms, west of Stewartstown.

But inside the farm's offices, Dan Wolf contemplates the neon-green commodity price charts scrolling across a satellite monitor and makes plans for planting corn.

Corn is king at this southern York County crop farm, where Dan Wolf and his brothers Dave and Steve crop 1,000 acres of the golden grain crop along with additional acreage in soybeans, wheat, timothy, and popcorn.

Wolf, a quiet, well-spoken farmer who studies his business intently, is one of the newest directors of the Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers Association (PMCGA).

Familiar to many corn producers through his participation in the statewide corn yield contest PMCGA also works closely with Penn State in education and research work toward improved yields and cropping practices.

"The association helps to promote corn through education and advertising," Dan said, adding that the PMCGA's efforts are closely related to the programs and efforts of the National Corn Growers Association. "We also work toward enlightening and educating elected officials in the best interests of corn growers."

Promoting new products made from corn is another focus of the corn growers' association. Ethanol, an alternative fuel made from corn, continues to grow in volume of usage across the country. Tax benefits granted for ethanol development were a result of the ongoing efforts of the corn growers' associations, Wolf noted.

Two generations at Wolf Farms attend to business on the family grain operation. From left are brothers Dave and Dan Wolf and Dan's son, Justin. Absent from the photo because he was in the shop getting equipment ready was the third Wolf brother and partner, Steve.

While the Lineback breed has gained in some popularity as a dairy breed, this is one of the few shows to offer a contest. There were nine animals exhibited. All qualified for the state show.

The senior and grand champion was a junior 2-year-old, Pocopson Meadow Jazz, owned by Becky Baily of West Chester. Her sister Meredity Baily showed the reserve senior and reserve grand champion, also a junior 2-year-old, Pocopson Meadow Sugar & Spice.

The junior champion Lineback was a summer yearling, Pocopson Meadow-Classic, owned by Jill Vail, of Myerstown. The reserve junior champion was a winter calf, Pocopson Meadow Lassie, owned by Leah Walton, of Kennett Square.

All champion Lineback were bred by E. Barnard Baily, father of the two girls.

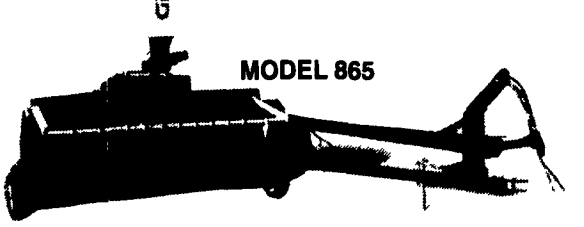
Buy This Almost New Preowned Gehl Model 865 Corn Harvester with 2 Row Corn Head, Hyd. Swing Draw Bar, Metal Stop Protection, Tandem Axle, Electric Controls, Used for only 2 Silos

Model 865 delivers high-capacity at an economy price for extra value. The 865 is designed for use with tractors from 60 to 150 horsepower (1,000 rpm) or up to 120 horsepower with 540 rpm.

Standard equipment includes an in-head hydraulic knife and cutterbar sharpening system, electric controls, one-way shear-bolt protection system, single station cutterbar adjustment and an overrunning clutch. Gehl's Metal Shop™ metal detector is an available option.

The eight-knife cutterhead is close coupled to the blower for continuous inline crop flow from the cutterhead to the blower to the spout. The cylinder is actually set into the blower compartment, speeding material flow from the cutterhead into the blower. Cylinder momentum and blower suction keep material moving, reducing horsepower requirements and fuel consumption.



High Capacity with Unmatched Economy

The highly efficient Model 865 uses less horsepower per chopped ton than larger model forage harvesters.

Two-row (shown) and three-row corn attachments are available in narrow or wide row models. The two-row unit fits all three harvesters while the three-row unit fits both the Model 1065 and 1265.

Both corn attachments feature a patented rotor cutting system to feed stalks to the stationary cutting knife. Stalks are grabbed individually for minimal loss. With 3-inch wide crested gathering belts, the whole stalk and ears are delivered to the cylinder. The same sprocket powers both the gathering belts and the rotary knives. This simple system means less weight, less vibration and less maintenance.

Scavenger® Manure Spreaders

In Stock at Binkley & Hurst

See Binkley & Hurst Bros. Today!

THE BEST JUST GOT BETTER!

Better Performance. Gehl Scavenger®, the original V-tank spreader, has built a well-deserved reputation for delivering unmatched performance in a wide variety of materials. The new Scavenger takes that performance to the next level with even better spreading patterns in the toughest heavily-bedded manures.

Increased Durability. Not only has the new Scavenger been designed to out-perform all other V-tank spreaders, but the main drive system components have been beefed-up for extra durability and increased dependability.

Why is Scavenger the Best? One big reason is the unique new round-core auger. This auger features segmented paddles grouped in a spiral pattern. This flighting configuration delivers more material to the discharge expeller in less time for faster unloading. The paddles are precisely positioned to deliver more uniform feeding to the discharge expeller. This exceptional design breaks up and blends all types of manure.

The auger is hydraulically powered both up and down (unlike competitive units that use springs, gravity or fixed augers). This design provides more control to chop through bridged material or power down through heavy loads.

Outstanding Application Control. Gehl's proven Variflo discharge system has been made even better. It's 33 percent wider on the Model 1315. On all new models the expeller assembly has been significantly strengthened. New square-tooth expeller paddles spread smoothly and evenly. You choose the rate you want, from heavy spring-time spreading to light top-dressing. With Scavenger you have complete control right at your fingertips.

Scavenger is Simply Better. The Gehl Scavenger is a simple spreader. It's solid and durable with sealed, welded tank construction and a full length channel steel sub-frame. Every Scavenger is built to deliver top performance year after year.

Your Gehl Dealer can show you why the new Scavenger V-tank spreader is still the best.

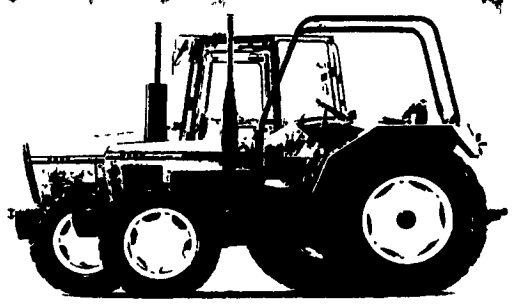
There are new workhorses in the John Deere stable.



Customers made us aware of the need for a tractor that performs to a high standard with reliability and durability but at an affordable price.

In response John Deere brings you a range of tractors produced by Zetor Brno. Every tractor has a full John Deere warranty and the quality service and parts back up of your local John Deere dealer.

John Deere engineers have been working with Zetor for over a year continually testing new tractors to meet the performance and reliability standards demanded by you. The result is the John Deere 2000 series.

There are six models in the 2000 series ranging in power from 36.5 kWs to 74.6 kWs (49 hp to 100 hp)* All models are available with 2WD or MFWD and all can be equipped with a comfortable cabin.

There's even a narrow version of the turbo charged model 2000 ideally suited to vineyard or orchard applications.

John Deere is proud of the reputation we have built over the years. We strive to bring you quality equipment that meets your needs. The 2000 series is no exception.

The 2000 series offers you value for your money and the support and security that comes with every John Deere tractor. We stake our name on it.

Nothing runs like a Deere

GREAT TRACTOR.

The New White 6045 ROPS. When you're working in and under low overheads, this low profile 45 PTO hp tractor is a great value for today's farmer. The 6045 gives you a low profile straddle mount and a 12F/12R synchronized reverser transmission to change direction in any gear. For reliable power, there's a liquid-cooled diesel engine. And its true center line power front axle with a 50-degree turning angle helps you get around the tight spaces. Plus, the 6045 has a 2-year/2000-hour AGCO warranty on 100% parts and labor, with no deductible. Climb into a 6045 at your local White dealer. And ask about flexible Agricredit financing plans, offering low rates and waiver of interest contracts.

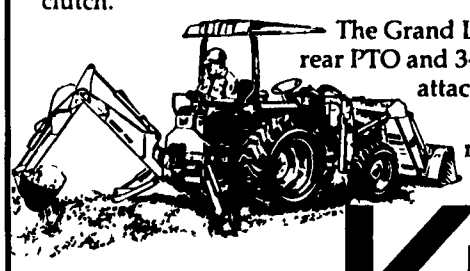
Kubota Parts In Stock
We Ship Daily

Introducing Kubota's new Grand L-Series diesel tractors. Four compact models with 25 to 37 PTO HP. Designed to take on any job that demands power and mobility.

Available in 2WD and 4WD, the Grand L-Series features Kubota's new ETVCS diesel engines that run quiet with cleaner emissions. Operator friendly with power steering, tilt wheel and enclosed muffler for greater visibility. The roomy flat operator's deck is ISO mounted to greatly reduce vibration.

The Grand L-Series has a choice of transmissions, the new fully synchronized main transmission with Synchro-Shuttle allowing shifting-on-the-go through the 4 main gears or the new GST (Glide Shift Transmission) which allows shifting-on-the-go through all 8 speeds, both run smoothly and efficiently with the new larger diameter, larger capacity clutch.



The Grand L-Series powerful hydraulic system, independent rear PTO and 3-point hitch hook up to a wide range of quick-attach implements to handle any job.

Kubota's Grand L-Series gives you power, mobility and a smooth quiet ride.

Reaching the top is easier if you have the AGCO® Allis 7600 tractor pulling you up.

Make Your Way Up Your Own Corporate Ladder.

The 89 PTO hp engine has the power to muscle through most any job. This multi-purpose, row-crop tractor has a standard synchronized transmission with 24 forward and 12 reverse speeds. For your convenience, you can choose between the cab or rops with an optional canopy.

- A direct air-cooled diesel engine powers the tractor and delivers maximum strength through the full speed range. So you're able to get more work done using less fuel, doing less shifting and requiring less effort to operate the tractor.
- This also lets you match engine power to ground speeds for more efficient field work.
- The AWD models feature true centerline drive shaft for more efficient power transfer and less maintenance.
- Like always, every AGCO Allis tractor comes with a 4-year/ 4,000-hour warranty that's backed by your dealer.

To see what the 7600 tractor can do for you, just stop by and see us. You'll be surprised at how fast you'll climb.

The NEW LEADER L3020

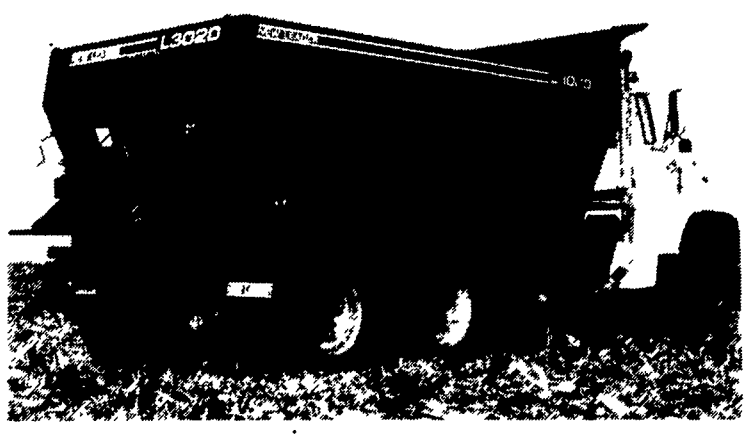
Heavy Duty LIME SPREADER



For more than 50 years, New Leader has aggressively met and exceeded market demand by producing the most dependable, adaptable and durable spreaders in the industry. The heavy-duty L-3020 spreader is a direct result of New Leader's unmatched experience in the agricultural equipment field. Designed for high-volume applications of ag-lime and gypsum, the rugged and resilient L-3020 is also suitable for spreading fertilizer and hauling aggregate material. Equipped with an optional swinging rear endgate, the L-3020 can be quickly and efficiently converted into a controlled discharge, no-hoist dump system for stockpiling. The L-3020's standard 30-inch wide conveyor system virtually eliminates the material bridging that's common with narrower conveyor spreaders. The versatile L-3020 broadcasts ag-lime at rates up to six tons per acre and fertilizer at rates as low as 150 pounds per acre.

Other Available Features:
- Complete body in 304 or 409 stainless steel
- Mounts on vehicles equipped with highway, semi or full flotation tires
- An optional ladder that attaches to either the left-or right-hand-side of the unit.
- Optional heat-and petroleum - resistant conveyor belting available for transport and application of hot asphalt.

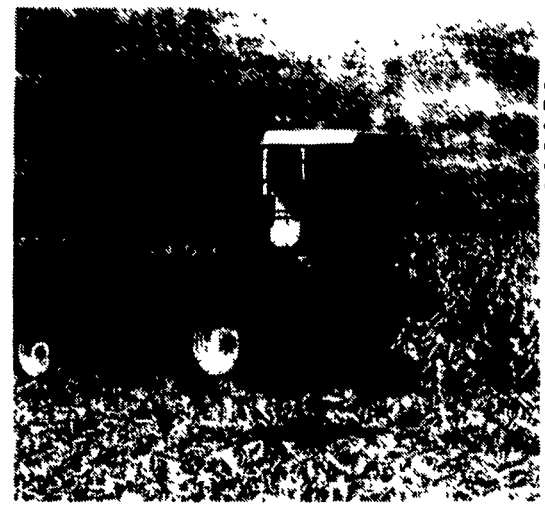
CLAAS
The Harvesting Specialist

Corn heads that get the ears the other heads leave behind.

MF 800 Series corn heads.

These Quick-Attach heads are designed and built to save more crop when the going gets tough.



Hook up of Quick Attach heads is made easier with reliable, heavy duty PTO-style drive shafts

■ Reduced snapping angle.
Long snouts with low hinge points and 23 degree angle of snapping units, lifts low hanging ears and slides under down, tangled crops to get lodged ears that other heads just can't

■ Hinged dividers.
Center and outer dividers are hinged for quick, easy access to the snapping rolls, plates gather chains, vine knives and grass shields

■ Quick-Adjust snapping plates.
All left-hand snapping plates can be quickly adjusted from one convenient location to match crop and conditions

■ Cross auger.
Rugged 14 in (310 mm) auger with 4 in (100 mm) flighting moves crops smoothly and evenly into the feeder elevator Choose standard auger flight extension or optional spike-tooth center section for weedy conditions

■ Choice of sizes
MF 800 Series corn heads are available for four, six and eight rows and spacings from 28 in (710 mm) to 38 in (965 mm) depending on model
